MISSION IN MOSCOWLegitimate Use of Arcos
Ltd., He Says, Will Permit
Ordinary Commerce
to Continue.By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 24.—Diplomatic relations between Great Britain and Soviet Russia will be broken, subject to approval of the House of Commons on Thursday, Premier Baldwin announced today. The Government's decision is a sequel to the recent raid on Soviet House in London.Baldwin said that the British Government proposed to terminate the present trade agreement and the withdrawal of the Russian Trade Delegation and the British mission from Moscow.
He stated that the British diplomatic representatives in Moscow
would be recalled.The legitimate use of Arcos Ltd., the Russian commercial organization, would not be affected by the Government's decision, he
was prepared, while terminating the privileges conferred by certain articles of the trade agreement, to make all the arrangements necessary for ordinary trade facilities between the two countries.The Government's decision, the Premier said, was based on investigation regarding the "propaganda and subversive activities" of the Russian trade delegation which had been in the recent raid of Soviet House and the seizure of certain documents and files.Baldwin House for Propaganda.
Among these papers, the Premier said, one snatched from the hands of a man burning certain documents, contained a list of addresses, including some in the United States. This paper, he continued, showed means of communication with the Communist parties in the United States, Mexico, South America, Canada, Australia,
New Zealand and South Africa.The Premier charged that Soviet House had been habitually used as clearing house for subversive propaganda, including a "hands China" campaign, as well as military espionage and subversive activities throughout the British Empire and North and South America.Responsibilities for the tactics of the Trade Delegation and for the abuse of the facilities afforded by the latter, could not be escaped
by the Soviet Government, the Premier declared. It would be difficult to believe, he continued, that while one organ of the Soviet Government thus was breaking its undertakings, that the other organ of that Government was maintaining the Soviet mission and the Soviet Government itself were not parties to the proceedings.Former Premier Ramsay MacDonald arrived at the House of Commons at 6 p. m., just too late to hear Baldwin's speech. The Soviet members received him at entrance of the House, and they escorted him in.
Premier Baldwin was cheered when he entered the House. The Soviet and great galleries were filled, and great difficulty was experienced in accommodating the late arriving distinguished guests.The Premier, answering a question by J. H. Clynes, Laborite, as to whether he could now make a statement regarding the raid
on Soviet House and the result of the search, replied, "Yes, sir," to
the accompaniment of loud
cheers.The Premier said that for many months the police, in collaboration with military authorities, had been investigating the activities of a group of agents engaged in attempts to obtain highly confidential documents relating to the armed forces of Great Britain.

REPUBLICAN GUARDS CALLED OUT TO HANDLE CROWDS
TRYING TO SEE LINDBERGHAviator, in Modest 10-Minute Speech, Holds Luncheon Guests Spell-Bound With Story of His Flight.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 24.—Capt. Lindbergh made his second Paris speech at a luncheon given in his honor today by the American Club. It was even a greater success than his first, given last night, although he stuck to the same simple style.After holding the guests spellbound for 10 minutes with a most modest description of his New York-Paris flight, he concluded: "I hope I haven't kept you too long," and sat down amid a terrific round of applause.Lindbergh is firmly established as an idol of France, and today, the third since he completed his memorable air journey, the enthusiasm of Parisians showed no signs of waning. His natural simplicity was making new friends every hour.Two detachments of Republican Guards, as well as a strong force of police, were required to keep the Boulevard Housemann open for traffic while the aviator was being entertained at the luncheon.The luncheon hall was so packed that the guests had to sit in closer quarters than did Lindbergh in the little wicker seat of his airplane during the long flight from New York to Paris.The hallways and reception rooms were crowded with persons not lucky enough to obtain tickets to the luncheon, but glad enough to get a glimpse of the hero as he passed.Builders Stop Work.
Masons, carpenters and laborers working on buildings under construction on the opposite side of the new boulevard laid down their tools and crowded to the scaffolding to see Lindbergh as he arrived.Lindbergh got a taste of home cooking in the course of the luncheon, which was decidedly international in flavor. Vermont sausages were served in between Russian eggs, French potatoes, and a new ice cream called "Bonbon places Lindbergh." Another dish was "filet de barbe a l'Americaine."Windows were crushed by the dense crowds in the streets. When word of this came to Percy Peixgout, president of the Chamber of Deputies, Lindbergh and Ambassador Herrick to the balcony where Lindbergh waved the French flag. The crowd, delirious with joy, cheered for a long time.Those who could reach him patted him, kissed his hands or gave vent to their frantic enthusiasm in any way that presented itself. Lindbergh came out through the window of the balcony with a French flag in his hand, and the street roared with cheers.Shop girls from all the dressmaking and millinery establishments in the center of Paris massed on the opposite of the streets, were less favored than the cooks and scullery boys, having to content themselves with throwing him kisses across the street.Lindbergh showed that he was especially pleased by the demonstration of the masons, carpenters and shop girls, but as he stepped back through the window he heaved a sigh of relief as though to say, "Well, this sort of thing is through with."Gen. Gouraud Kisses Him.
He had only reached his seat in the banquet hall, however, when a wave of applause, beginning at the entrance, rolled through and broke upon the speaker's table, with General Gouraud, Military Governor of Paris, following it.The mutilated hero of Gallipoli lined up over to where the aviator sat and brought a blush deeper than all the rest by clasping him in his remaining arm and kissing him on both cheeks.Ambassador Herrick, who presided at the luncheon, proposed that Lindbergh be made chairman of a committee of sportsmen to settle the world's political troubles, because, he said, "sportsmen fly so high above international tangles, with disregard for national boundaries and obstacles."M. P. Peltout, president of the club, and Theodore Rousseau, vice president, sat at Ambassador Her-
Gouraud and the American Consul-General, Alphonse Gaulin, on his right.Facing the workmen and hearing their cheers, he beamed again as he did yesterday when President Doumergue pinned the star of the Legion of Honor to his breast, and as he did once more today, a few minutes later, when he donned their pots and kettles to give him one of the most spontaneous greetings he has received.Lindbergh was kissed by a petite brunette today to the huge enjoyment of a big crowd and to his own blushing confusion. It was just after he had been entertained at Le Bourget at the traditional ceremonies.The Premier, answering a question by J. H. Clynes, Laborite, as to whether he could now make a statement regarding the raid
on Soviet House and the result of
the search, replied, "Yes, sir," to
the accompaniment of loud

with military authorities, had been

group of agents engaged in

LINDBERGH TELLS PARIS HOW 'WE' GOT READY FOR GREAT ADVENTURE

RELIABILITY OF MOTOR PROVED BY TRIP, FLYER SAYS

St. Louisan Tells American Club He Would Rather Land in France Than in Any Other Country.

PREFERRED GASOLINE TO AN OBSERVER

Airman Declares Task of Nungesser and Coli Greater Than His as They Were Going Westward.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, May 24.—Telling of his New York to Paris flight in a speech at the luncheon given in his honor today by the American Club of Paris, Capt. Lindbergh said:

"Gentlemen, I am not going to express my appreciation of the reception I have had here from Paris and the French. I would be unable to do so in words. But I will tell you a little about the flight from New York, and I believe you will be more interested in that than anything I can say, because I am not used to public speaking.

"We first considered this project last fall in St. Louis, we had one of the most successful air races there that has ever been made, so we decided to organize a flight, and at that time the Atlantic flight from New York to Paris seemed to be the greatest achievement we could consider—although there are other projects that would be greater—also because a flight from New York to Paris meant a good deal to us.

"There is no other country after America in which we would rather land than France, and I believe the name of the plane itself, 'Spirit of St. Louis' was meant to convey a certain meaning to the people of France. I hope it has.

"There was a good deal of consideration of the type of plane to be used in the flight, but the single-motored was considered the best, and the reason for not carrying an observer was that we could carry more gasoline without one. It was impossible to miss the coast line of Europe, but we might have missed the coast of France by a few hundred miles if we had not carried enough fuel.

"The order for the plane was placed in San Diego. The motor of this plane, as I consider, one of the best types made in America. The record of the Wright motors is greater than that of any other type.

"After visiting San Diego, I awaited favorable weather conditions in the United States to make the flight to New York. It was during that time that the immortal Frenchmen, Nungesser and Coli, left France, and as I have said before, on a much greater flight from France to America, because they were knowingly going into greater difficulties on account of wind and weather than from America to France.

"Unfortunately, they probably met on the western coast with as bad weather conditions as ever existed.

"During four days, I was tied up in San Diego awaiting clearer weather to go to New York. Finally we left San Diego one evening flying over the mountains during the night, and arrived in St. Louis. Then from St. Louis we went to New York.

"In New York we were again delayed by weather conditions and it was necessary to check the motor and plane, but nothing beyond inspection was done to either the motor or the plane.

"The machine had already done 6200 miles—over 61 hours. I think this demonstrates the reliability of the commercial motor of today and demonstrates also the reliability of planes of modern construction.

"We finally decided to leave New York upon receiving fairly good weather reports and after working on the plane and making ready for the flight, we left New York at 7:52 in the morning (Friday), May 20. (Lindbergh habitually refers to himself and his plane as WE.)

"Weather conditions were satisfactory over Newfoundland but after leaving the coast it was necessary to fly over 10,000 feet because of aloft.

"Then at night we flew over: 8000 to 10,000 feet but in the day time we flew through the fog. We finally followed up a course definitely about three miles north of the point on the western coast of Ireland and which we had hoped to reach.

"I want to say that the fact that we came within three miles of that point was an accident. Had it been 25 miles it might have been navigation.

"During the entire trip I saw no ship at any time. The first trace of a human being was a small fishing boat, probably 80 miles from Ireland. Several hours after leaving Newfoundland I saw the lights of one boat. There were large ice fields.

"My time is very short now and I believe I will be unable to tell you more of my flight at present. I hope I haven't taken up too much of your time as it is."

money by the Thirty-fourth Regiment of aviation. He had stepped onto the field for a look around around when the young lady, who was presented to him by a friend, cried: "May I kiss you?"

The flyer turned as red as a peony but came back: "Certainly." She did.

At the regimental ceremony, where Lindbergh merely touched his lips to the glass of champagne, he heard himself called by the commander, "the greatest aviator in the world."

Without a moment's hesitation, the American in reply toasted: "The nation of the world's greatest aviator."

One of the guests present was General Hergault, Inspector General of Aviation, who had flown all the way from Casablanca, Morocco—a two-day trip—to greet Lindbergh.

Cossack General Calls. Before leaving the American embassy for the American Club luncheon Lindbergh had a pleasant talk with Gen. N. N. Barstov, president of the Czarist Association of Russian Mutilated Veterans.

He entered the American embassy in full Cossack regalia, with high boots, baggy blue trousers, a fuzzy white astrakhan headpiece, orders and decorations gleaming on his chest, and daggers stuck in his belt, with a well loaded cartridge bandolier over his shoulder.

His mission was milder than his appearance. He asked Lindbergh to attend a ball Friday night at the Invalides for the benefit of the Russian wounded veterans.

When the flyer finally started for the club luncheon, he faced a cheering crowd, and he and Ambassador Herrick had to make their usual appearance on the embassy balcony. The car moved between lines of waving and shouting enthusiasts, men uncovering as the hero passed, and a score of camera men busily recording the scene.

Place of Honor for Plane. Lindbergh could not be present at a luncheon in the Bourget hangar today, given for the presidents of the Chambers of Commerce of France, but his plane, draped with the French and American flags, held a place of honor behind President Doumergue, who presided.

The universal affection felt for Lindbergh among all classes of Frenchmen is absolutely unique. No honor, it is felt, can be adequate to express the national admiration. His every action is talked of eagerly by the impressionable Gallic people; he is sung of by popular bards; "Lindbergh, the Saga," is on every lip. Primitive hands consisting of violin, guitar and concertina peddle songs written in his honor in every market place and square, the men warbling the verses through megaphones.

Public Reception for Him. But the people are not satisfied with talking and reading about the hero; they want to see him, and they have had little opportunity thus far in his rapid trips from the American Embassy, escorted just like a sovereign by secret service men. It was with the idea of satisfying this popular desire that the City Council fixed on Thursday, which is Ascension day and a public holiday, for a reception, so that as many as possible can get a glimpse of him.

On that day the President of the City Council, the Vice Presidents and officers of the Assembly will go in state to the embassy to accompany Lindbergh in an open carriage by the Arc de Triomphe through the Champs Elysees and the Rue Rivoli to the City Hall, on the steps of which he will be presented to Parisians.

Later he will sign the "Golden Book," as did Louis Bleriot after he flew across the English Channel 20 years ago.

Lindbergh knows that the people, above all, want to see him in action in his element, and he is going to try to give them an exhibition of the skill which brought him across the ocean with the regularity of a crack express train. He is planning to make a flight over Paris Thursday afternoon, and he hopes to make a flight over the English Channel after the plane touched the ground Saturday night.

Pleased by his simple, kindly manner, the mechanics offered to go to when he returns to America, St. Louis.

King and Others Prepare to Receive Lindbergh in Belgium.

By the Associated Press. BRUSSELS, May 24.—King Albert of Belgium will receive Capt. Lindbergh at the palace here on Saturday, after the American aviator has made a visit to the tomb of the unknown Belgian soldier, it was announced today.

On Saturday evening Capt. Lindbergh will be the guest of honor at a dinner of the American Club. Crown Prince Leopold will be present, together with all the members of the Cabinet and the diplomatic corps. Burgomaster Max and one of the Belgian flying aces will attend the dinner. An official reception at the city hall will be held Sunday.

American Embassy in Brussels to Arrange Visit There.

By the Associated Press. BRUSSELS, May 24.—As in Paris, the American Embassy will take charge of Captain Lindbergh when he lands here Saturday on his flight from Paris.

James C. Dunn, the American Charge d'Affaires, today was making arrangements for the visit, and the American Club was planning a big banquet in his honor.

It is believed almost certain that King Albert will want to see the daring aviator from overseas as soon as he arrives, for being a veteran flyer and a man of scientific tastes, he has shown a special interest in everything pertaining to Lindbergh and his achievement.

RENAMED "LINDBERGH FIELD" SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 24.—A cablegram advising Capt. Charles Lindbergh that the airfield landing field here had been renamed Lindbergh field in his honor, and asking him to participate in the formal christening ceremonies, has been sent to Lindbergh by the Springfield Chamber of Commerce. Lindbergh carried the first air mail out of this city.

It is believed almost certain that King Albert will want to see the daring aviator from overseas as soon as he arrives, for being a veteran flyer and a man of scientific tastes, he has shown a special interest in everything pertaining to Lindbergh and his achievement.

ADDING MACHINE NEEDED TO TOTAL LINDBERGH OFFER

Those Known to St. Louis Hackers Are in the Neighborhood of $750,000.

"I'd need an adding machine to tell," Harry H. Knight, one of the backers of "Slim" Lindbergh's New York-to-Paris flight, replied today when asked the total value of contracts offered the flyer for various appearances, movie engagements and other activities. Knight declared it would be impossible to total the offers because many of the offers would be in time and "Slim" would not be able to fill all of them. "I understand, however, that their total value is in the neighborhood of $750,000."

Although the acceptance of contracts is up to the flyer, Knight thought likely Lindbergh's local backers would make up a schedule of engagements within a few days to be filled by the flyer, subject to his approval. Lindbergh has stoutly declared he would not consent to stage appearances.

From information received and evidence obtained as a result of these investigations, it became increasingly difficult to resist the conclusion that the agents were working in behalf of the Soviet Government and had obtained their instructions from members of the Russian Trade Delegation who were working at Soviet House and who arranged for the conveyance to Moscow of photographs or copies of the documents obtained.

Premier Baldwin continued that when early this year a British subject, employed by the air force, was charged with stealing two such documents. These documents were recovered and the individual was now undergoing imprisonment. The identity of the secret organization on behalf of which this man had obtained the documents and its connection with a similar Russian organization had been established.

The Premier said further that a document of official and highly confidential character, and so marked, recently had been missing from information and documentary evidence, it became clear it had been conveyed to Soviet House and there reproduced by photostatic process.

During the raid on Soviet House, Baldwin said, a locked room was found, in which a man was hastily burning papers. After a struggle, one of these papers was secured. It was a list of secret addresses, including "some in the United States."

Previous to the raid, he said, an application for a search warrant was made as a result of the information that had been gathered.

He charged that Arcos House, generally known as Soviet House, had been habitually used as a clearing house for subversive correspondence, including a "hands off China" campaign.

Both military espionage and subversive activities throughout the empire as well as North and South America were directed and managed from Soviet House, he asserted. No differentiation between the trade delegation and Arcos, housed in the same building, had been observed and both organizations had been involved in anti-British espionage propaganda.

In alluding to the list of addresses discovered as "secret cover" addresses, Premier Baldwin explained that they showed communication with the United States, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa.

Diplomatic Breaks Will Not Create State of War. The Cabinet held a final meeting this morning when the home secretary, Sir William Jonson-Hicks, disclosed all the secrets of the raid, during which tons of documents were read and copied. It is said that among the papers was a mass of revolutionary matter, all of which is now in his hands. Together with Secret Service reports covering months, purporting to show Soviet activities in this country in violation of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement.

ART NEWMAN SAYS HE KNOWS NOTHING OF ADAMS KILLING

Murder Charge Surprises Him — He "Rather Thought" He Was Wanted as Federal Witness.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. LONG BEACH, Cal., May 24.—Art Newman, one of the leaders in the recent Southern Illinois gang warfare, "rather thought" he was wanted by Federal authorities as a witness against his bitter enemies, the Shelton brothers, when he was arrested here last Sunday.

It was a disappointment to him when he learned, instead, that he was taken into custody on indictments charging him with murder and bank robbery in Illinois. He was visibly perturbed when told that Sheriff Pritchard of Franklin County, Ill., left last night for Long Beach with extradition papers for his return there for trial for the murder of Mayor Joe Adams of West City.

Protesting innocence of the murder and the bank robbery, Newman announced that he would resist extradition. He has engaged an attorney in his own behalf.

"Can't Understand It." "I can't understand why they should connect me with the murder of Joe Adams," Newman said. "I didn't kill him. I killed Charley Gordon, but was tried and acquitted on that charge. Gordon was named by the Shelton boys as the man to put me away. We came together one day and Gordon said to me, 'I fired in self-defense and killed him. That is the only killing I know anything about.'"

"Harry Thomasson has pleaded guilty of killing Joe Adams and while in the private car of E. D. Bronner, president of the Michigan Central Railroad, to take her and her party to New York when her son returns has been accepted by Mrs. Lindbergh."

Lodge said today that he had called Capt. Lindbergh in an effort to learn the approximate date of the flyer's return. He expressed the opinion, however, that the flyer might try to avoid the huge reception planned for him here.

"He doesn't like to be celebrated over," Lodge said.

Mother Gets Courtship Ovation. "I am deeply touched by the honor that has been done my boy and me. Nothing was left undone or unsaid and I am more than grateful for everything."

City officials are planning a huge reception for Lindbergh, who is expected to include Detroit in his itinerary when he returns to America.

FLYER'S MOTHER REFUSES $100,000 TO PLAY IN MOVIES

Repeats Statement That She Has No Intention of Commercializing the Fame Her Son Has Gained.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, Mich., May 24.—That Mrs. Evangeline Lodge Lindbergh has no intention of commercializing the fame gained by her son through the New York-Paris flight, has been emphasized by her refusal to consider a motion picture contract for more than $100,000 to appear in a "mother scene."

Mrs. Lindbergh, a Detroit high school instructor, was approached yesterday by one of the leading motion picture companies. The exact sum offered was not disclosed.

John C. Lodge, acting mayor and grand uncle of the flyer, acted as emissary for the interests which brought the contract to him. When he visited her to discuss the proposition, he reminded her that she had conferred power of attorney on him some time ago.

"I believe I would rather have you give the decision on this proposal, however, in view of the extent of the money involved," Lodge replied.

His answer is a decisive "No". Mrs. Lindbergh refused to discuss the contract other than to reiterate her previous statements that she is deserving of no part of the glory of her now famous son.

She will go to New York to greet him when he returns and will be accompanied by Lodge and C. H. Land, her brother.

YOUTH HELD UP 7 PERSONS WITH GLASS PISTOL

Hatless, Blond Collegiate-Looking Robber Captured Through Description and Confesses.

The blonde, hatless, collegiate-looking youth who held up seven persons early last Sunday, was captured today, and admitted his weapon was merely a glass imitation for which he had paid 25 cents.

He is Joseph J. Stenson, 18 years old, of 3274 Regal place, arrested at 1:30 a. m., as he slept at home, by detectives who had traced him through descriptions given by his victims.

Stenson is on parole from Hoenville Reformatory, to which he was sentenced for five years in an automobile theft case. He says he was paroled from the bench in Juvenile Court here March 1, 1926.

Stenson renewed his criminal activities by stealing the automobile of Samuel Mandell, 1422 Laurel avenue, Saturday night. After midnight, he drove to South St. Louis, where he held up three men, one at a time, and party of two men and two women, obtaining $37, three watches and three rings.

Those held up were Pearl Cressell, 5036 Tennessee avenue; Bernice Hug, 5225 Vermont avenue; Oliver Ammon, 5411 Alabama avenue; William Kiese, 4405 South Grand boulevard; William Davidson, 2132 Osceola street, Vernon Ambach, 2855A Osage street, and George Spahn, 3142 Iowa avenue.

Spahn, the last to be held up, son, 3132 Osceola street, Vernon Iowa avenue. Unlike the others, who reported the highwayman and a "big gun," Spahn discerned the weapon was an imitation. He showed fight and was not robbed, the highwayman running away, abandoning his stolen automobile and discarding his stolen jewelry.

When arrested, Stenson said he turned robber to pay doctors' bills, and had spent the $37 that way. He was identified by the victims, and identified them.

DIVORCES PRINCE WHO SAYS SHE PAID HIM TO MARRY HER

Former Aimee Crocker, Five Times Wed, Wins Decree in Paris Against Mislav Galatzine.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, May 24.—A decree of divorce was granted today to the Princess Galatzine, formerly Aimee Crocker, California heiress. The Court upheld her contention that Prince Mislav Galatzine, whom she married here in September, 1925, had deceived her and maintained relations with other women.

The Prince must pay the entire costs of the suit, and will not receive the $125 month alimony which he claimed. Although this sum was stipulated in a letter from the Princess which was admitted as a sort of marriage settlement and which was read during the hearing, the Court held that he had deceived his wife and therefore had lost all right to what otherwise could not, under the terms of the contract, be denied him.

The five times married Aimee Crocker petitioned for a divorce from the young Russian nobleman on grounds of misconduct and abandonment. The Prince charged that the marriage was a purely commercial one. He said he married for a financial settlement and on condition that the union be one in name only. His counsel read a letter in court, purporting to have been written by the wife, asserting that she "hired" the services of Prince Galatzine as in commercial transaction.

"I consent to pay you," the letter continued, "during both our existences $250, but if there is a divorce I will pay you only $125 monthly during your lifetime."

All of Aimee Crocker's five marriages now have ended in divorce. Her husbands have been Porter Ashe, Harry Gillig, Jackson Gouard, Prince Mislavoff and Prince Galatzine.

ENDS LIFE UNDER TRAIN AFTER KILLING BROTHER AND SISTER

Tennessee's Motive in Apparent Double Murder and Suicide Being Sought by Police.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. KNOXVILLE, Tenn., May 24.—Sam and Floyd Phillips and their sister, Louise Phillips, were found dead today in what police believed was a case of double murder and suicide.

The finding of the decapitated body of Sam Phillips on the Southern Railway tracks just west of the city resulted in the discovery of the bodies of Floyd and Louise Phillips in the house the three occupied on Edgewater street. Their skulls had been crushed with an axe. Persons residing near where Sam Phillips' body was found told police they had seen him walking excitedly back and forth along the tracks and one said he saw Phillips throw himself in front of a freight train. Police advanced the theory that Sam Phillips, a textile worker, had slain his brother and sister and then ended his life, although no motive was known.

NEGRO HOSPITAL SITE QUESTION REFERRED TO LEGAL ADVISER

Attorney Asked to Give Ruling on Phrasing of Bond Issue Ordinance.

The Public Welfare Committee of the Board of Aldermen, after a hearing today on location of the new $1,200,000 hospital for Negroes, decided to ask Ben H. Charles, legal adviser to the Board of Aldermen, for an interpretation of the phrasing of the bond issue ordinance relating to the hospital.

City Counselor Muench told the committee that in his opinion the phrase of the ordinance referring to "an addition to hospital" bound the Board of Aldermen not to erect separate building for the Negro hospital. The board already has enacted an ordinance requiring the hospital be built on a site bounded by St. Ferdinand, Kennerly, Pendleton and Goode avenue.

Discussion bore on a new ordinance introduced by the Committee of Public Welfare Salubrious repealing the ordinance fixing the North St. Louis site. The Board of Aldermen once before has voted on the proposition to repeal and defeated it 26 to 6.

Comptroller Nolte, Health Commissioner Starkloff, Mayor Miller, Director Salubrious, City Counselor Muench and former Hospital Commissioner Cleveland E. Shut addressed the committee in favor of a site adjacent to City Hospital No. 1.

Homor G. Phillips, Negro lawyer, spoke in favor of a separate building on the North St. Louis site.

A three years' penitentiary term was fixed by a jury today as the punishment of Peter Kosta, of 619 Chouteau avenue, for felonious flight from the scene of an accident in which his automobile fatally injured a man. This is the first penitentiary sentence imposed here for felonious flight.

James Pappas of 4534 Papin street, a restaurant proprietor, died of injuries suffered in the accident which occurred in front of 4517 Chouteau last Jan. 17. A tip to the police resulted in the arrest of Kosta, who made a confession. On trial before Judge Hogan, Kosta denied the confession, but admitted the accident. He said he had reported to a policeman before leaving the scene, but the policeman denied this.

NEW TYPHOID EPIDEMIC REPORTED IN MONTREAL

By the Associated Press. MONTREAL, Que., May 24.—Although city health officials had declared the typhoid epidemic was under control late in April, in the last two weeks there have been nearly 1400 new cases. It is announced. This is more than half the number reported between March 4, when the epidemic became acute, and the last of April. There have been 3543 cases reported since March 4, and 239 deaths.

Officials of the Provincial Board of Health said the cause of the fever had not as yet been located. City officials believed they had found its source in the milk supply of two dairy companies, which were suspended.

NOVELIST BOUND OVER FOR MURDER AT HOME

Leonard Cline Held Without Bail for Death of Wilfred Irwin.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., May 24.—Leonard Cline, novelist, journalist and playwright, today is held for Superior Court, without bonds, charged with the murder of his friend, Wilfred Fryer Irwin, of New York. Arraigned yesterday, Cline pleaded not guilty in a firm voice.

The State called several witnesses, among them Sgt. Russell I. Harman of the State police, who told of a conversation he had had with Cline on May 1. At the time Cline had had Irwin arrested for drunkenness and disorder. Harman quoted Cline as saying: "I had a gun loaded to shoot him then, but I couldn't do it. I lost my nerve."

The shooting on May 16, two weeks after this conversation, followed several hours of drinking at the Cline home, according to the police.

Irwin had been Cline's guest for several weeks and was shot at Cline's home in Mansfield. He died later in St. Joseph's Hospital here. Cline gave a pint of his blood in an effort to save Irwin and his arraignment had been held up pending his recovery from the transfusion operation.

FLYER CREDITED WITH NEW NONSTOP DISTANCE RECORD
Lindbergh Covered 3600 Miles, According to Geological Survey Calculations.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 24.—Capt. Lindbergh was credited today with covering 3610 miles, or 5809.7 kilometers, on his New York-to-Paris flight by the Geological Survey, which makes the official line flight calculations for the National Aeronautical Association.

On this basis, Lindbergh broke the nonstop distance record established last October by the French aviators, Rignot and Costes, on a flight from Paris to Persia. They covered 3313 miles, or 5326 kilometers.

The association intends to certify the Geological Survey's estimate to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale, with a request that it be officially recognized as a new record.

BYRD EXPECTED TO ATTEMPT OVERSEAS FLIGHT IN 10 DAYS

Activity at Roosevelt Field Indicates He Will Start Air Voyage Soon.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 24.—Indications at Roosevelt Field are that Commander Richard E. Byrd, instead of hopping off for the Arctic or Honolulu, will start on a transatlantic flight in his tri-motored monoplane, America, within a week or 10 days. Lieut. George O. Noville and Bert Acosta will accompany Byrd.

Although no official statement was made, Grover Whalen, vice president of the America Trans-Ocean Co., sponsor of the Byrd expedition, said a flight to Europe had not been vetoed by the success of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh. He pointed out again that the Byrd flight had been designed primarily to show the practicability of airplane travel between New York and the capitals of Europe. Byrd said that Rodman Wamaker, president of the company and chief backer of the project, was not desirous of detracting from the glory of Lindbergh, but felt that plans for the America's flight to Europe had gone too far to be abandoned.

ARRESTED IN SALOON RAID

When police entered William Kaiser's saloon, 3552 Gravois avenue, they did not have a search warrant, but they were morally certain the place should be searched. Kaiser accommodatingly gave them permission to make the search, according to the police. In a small safe under the bar, the police reported, they found several quarts of whisky and a quart of gin. In a closet near the bar they said they found 48 quarts of beer on ice. Kaiser was arrested.

ANOTHER LEVEE IN LOUISIANA SUGAR SECTION BREAKS

Released Waters Threaten to Flood Last Dry Spot in Belt — 1500 Inhabitants Move Out.

NEW ORLEANS, May 24.—The last dry spot in the famous Louisiana "Sugar Bowl," an area approximately 150 miles north of New Orleans on the west bank of the Mississippi—was threatened with inundation today through a break in the levee at McCrea, 10 miles below Old River on the east bank of the Atchafalaya.

Two thousand men, augmented early today by an additional thousand, saw their work go for naught when the pent-up water rushed through at 3:30 a. m. Parts of five parishes were in the new path of the flood.

Information of the break reached Flood Relief Director Parker from the Sheriff of Point Coupee Parish, whose son was at work on the levee when the crevasse occurred. Secretary of Commerce Hoover was immediately informed. Warned of the danger, 1500 persons had been evacuated from the area.

No Lives Lost. Officials had estimated that a break at McCrea would affect 80,000 people, flooding 1,142,000 acres of rich cane lands between the Atchafalaya and the western levees of the Mississippi. No lives were lost when the crevasse occurred. Parker was notified.

The break is expected to give the flood waters an outlet to five additional parishes, but the flood relief organization was prepared for action. A naval aviator reported that the gap was 600 feet wide at 7 o'clock.

A large fleet of boats started rescue work as soon as the crevasse occurred.

Water Plants Delay Workers. Access to the inundated section, on the southern border of the vast lake which is sweeping down the gulf, has been cut off by the heavy growth of water hyacinth in the bayous. Roads have been inundated for some time. Only one boat had been able to make the journey to Bayou Chenet and the crew reported, when they returned to New Iberia yesterday afternoon, that they had to saw their way through.

Water hyacinths, loosed by the flood, have floated down bayous and lodged against bridges and piers where they have added greatly to the strain which the bridges are under from the high waters. In some cases they have made the bridges so unsafe that they have been closed.

MRS. ANNIE M. TURNO MALONE GETS DIVORCE ON CROSS BILL

Husband of Negro Millionaire Cosmetics Manufacturer Does Not Appear in Court.

Mrs. Annie M. Turnbo Malone, Negro millionaire and sole owner of the cosmetics business known as Poro College at 4380 St. Ferdinand avenue, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge Rutledge in Domestic Relations Court.

The husband, Aaron Malone, who recently relinquished his claim for a half-interest in the business for a sum said to be about $200,000, did not appear in court. The decree was granted on Mrs. Malone's cross-bill to his divorce suit filed in January. Malone's attorneys merely entered a general denial.

Mrs. Malone charged general indignities, reciting that her husband was contemptuous to her, unkind and quarrelsome. They were married in April, 1914, and separated in March, 1925, she testified. Malone's attorney said he was now residing at the home of Dr. O. S. McClellan, a personal friend, at 2509 North Newstead avenue. In suing for an accounting and receivership of the cosmetics business in January, Malone claimed a half-interest, though Mrs. Malone maintained the prosperous business was entirely the result of her efforts.

CUBA CONGRATULATES FLYER

World Trade Club's Resolution Praises Lindbergh and City.

A resolution of congratulation to Capt. Lindbergh on his successful New York-Paris flight and to the St. Louisans who backed him was adopted by the World Trade Club, meeting at luncheon at the Chamber of Commerce yesterday. It was suggested by Alberto G. Abreu, Cuban consul here, who expressed congratulations of his Government to the flyer, his sponsors, the American Government and the Chamber of Commerce.

Consul Abreu also took occasion to suggest to the club that St. Louis invite Cuban business men to visit this city on their vacations. This would strengthen ties of friendship and trade, he said. A committee headed by James A. Troy was appointed to further the idea.

Man Wrongly Identified Freed. Henry N. Dossett, Jr., a victim of mistaken identity, was freed of a holdup charge yesterday when the Circuit Attorney nolle-prossed an indictment charging him with robbing Carl J. Hoffman of $253 Marcus avenue at 533 on April 27 last. After Hoffman had identified Dossett as the holdup man, another prisoner confessed the robbery.

Your Dentist knows that 35% of tooth surfaces are never cleaned
by ordinary tooth brushes

When you remember that dreaded pyorrhea still attacks 80% of all persons over 35, isn't it time to revolutionize our method of cleaning teeth? When your dentist shows you that, with ordinary tooth brushing, even when most carefully done, 35% of the tooth surfaces never are cleaned, isn't it time to find a better way?

In spite of all the tooth brushes and pastes and antiseptics, mouth infection still causes distress and disease to thousands of persons because—until now—there has been NO method of keeping ALL teeth ALL clean.

No "toothbrush" is like this!

The Clean-BE-Tween is not merely a new brush, but a new way to clean teeth. The adjustable brush reaches every tooth surface. It cleans not only the fronts and backs of teeth, but the hard-to-get-at sides, and the spaces between! The up-and-down brushing advised by dentists is easy and natural with the Clean-BE-Tween. The Clean-BE-Tween was designed by dentists. It is scientifically correct in size and shape. The brush adjusts to any position on the handle and is removable and replaceable. TRIED FOR EMBEZZLING $500 FROM HIS UNION

Ex-Officer Says Secret Payment to Strike Fund Explains Transaction.

Harry Jones, 54 years old, former secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, is on trial today in Circuit Judge Osine's court charged with embezzlement of funds of the association, of which he was an officer from 1913 to 1925.

He is charged specifically with having appropriated $500, although auditors reported discrepancies of about $27,000 in his books. Last May, after he was ousted from office, the association sued to recover a sum "in excess of $50,000," but the suit was later dismissed on a demurrer.

When the trial opened yesterday, William Rader, special prosecutor, announced he would show that Jones borrowed $500 from Thomas G. Williams, vice president of the Von Hoffman Press, for personal uses on April 2, 1924, and paid it back with a check drawn on the association and signed by himself as an officer.

Wayne Ely, attorney for Jones, declared the money was used for union expenses to carry on a strike in New York and was handled irregularly in accordance with the association's policy of concealing such expenses.

William J. McCain, Jones' successor as secretary-treasurer, and Miss Matilda Becker, bookkeeper at the Telegraphers' National Bank, gave evidence.

Jones had been active in union labor for years. He resided in New York prior to 1912, when he became an officer of the Iron Workers' Union. He has lived here since 1920, when the offices were moved from Indianapolis.

SUIT TO KEEP CHURCH OUT OF FLORA PLACE IS HEARD

Defendants Would Remove Restrictions As to Corners on Grand Boulevard.

Defendants in a suit to uphold the restrictions of Flora place as a private residence street today presented testimony before Circuit Judge Hartmann in an effort to show that the rule against other uses should be lifted as far as the Grand boulevard corners are concerned. The thoroughfare, which is owned by the abutting lot holders, with a parkway in the center, runs six blocks, from Grand to Tower Grove avenue.

On March 13, 1897, the property owners covenanted to restrict the district to private dwellings. On March 12, 1925, the Compton Heights Christian Church bought the southwest corner of Grand and Flora, lot No. 1 in the place, including the former residence of Henry Nicolaus. The church paid about $40,000. Julius T. Robinson, Guy E. Fulton and Joseph A. Dewes, residents of Flora place, recently sued the church, contending that its presence violated the restrictions, which they hold to be perpetual.

Declares Its Solvency and Alleges Its Mortgages Are "Tainted With Usury."

The Davis Boring Tool Co., 3623 Forest Park avenue, organized

In 1902, went into permanent receivership yesterday on petition of a creditor, the Crucible Steel Co., with a claim of $6764 for steel furnished.

The company admitted the allegations in the petition. Circuit Judge Hartmann appointed as receiver Edwin B. Melchner, president of the St. Louis Car Co. Walter H. Saunders, J. M. Blayney and Samuel I. Sievers were appointed attorneys for the receiver.

The Davis company is not insolvent, the petition states, but lacks ready cash to meet current obligations and operation expenses.

Its debts exceed $100,000, but it has an $85,000 equity in its plant and real estate, and other assets, and had $27,000 worth of orders on hand, with nearly enough material to fill them.

Reference is made to second and third mortgages on the company's property, alleged to be "tainted with usury." The petition asserts the Forest-Spring Realty Co., a holding company, gave promissory notes aggregating $31,875 to the Missouri Mortgage Security Corporation of Clayton, Jan. 4, 1926, but received only $18,280.54, the deductions including $5562 to pay off hearing June 6.

the first four notes, and $6000 as a commission to Paul Sacha, vice president of the Missouri company. On a second loan from the same source, Dec. 4, 1926, it is alleged the holding company gave $15,000 in notes, but received only $12,750, $2250 being deducted as a commission to a clerk in the office of the Missouri company. All notes were secured by mortgages.

Receiver Melchner filed a suit at Clayton for an accounting on the two loans, and for an injunction against disposal of the notes. Judge McElhinney will hold a

DIET AND DENTIST URGED FOR GOOD TEETH

Director of Bureau of Mouth Hygiene Addresses Missouri Dental Session.

Good teeth depend on the dentist and not the toothbrush, several hundred members of the Missouri State Dental Association were told in the opening session of their sixty-sixth annual convention.

The speaker, Dr. William R. Davis, described with lantern slides, the program he is in charge of as the director of the Bureau of Mouth Hygiene and Preventive Dentistry of the Michigan Board of Health. Many dentists at the convention advocate such a program in Missouri.

"I am convinced that today there are just two means of much value in preventing dental infection," declared Dr. Davis. "One is diet and the other is early care by the dentist."

"The last word has not yet been written on diet, but we know it is important and perhaps, so far as good teeth are concerned, is most important for the mother before the child is born, and in the first few months and year of life. We believe correct diet has great value at any time in retarding and preventing decay."

"But the unfortunate fact today is that the majority of molar teeth come in with pit and fissure defects. If these are not remedied at once, by a dentist, decay and infection are imminent."

"The fact is 20 to 70 per cent of school children have mouth infection, and that 70 to 90 per cent either have infection or are on the road to infection. This is not only a menace to health, but greatly retards school work."

Scientific medicine, in bringing into general acceptance that "mouth infection may cause serious lesions of the heart, kidney, joints and other portions of the body," he remarked, had "in a few years brought dentistry from an esoteric art to a science which has to deal with matters of life and death."

"We cannot emphasize too strongly," he continued, "that the removal and prevention of mouth infection is the most important essential. It would seem this is self-evident. But it is surprising how many dentists, asked the aim of a dental health program, answer at once, 'Education.'"

"Education is only a means to an end. Education can convince of the necessity. It cannot remove or prevent. Unfortunately for us at the present time, the dentist has to do practically all of the removing and most of the preventing. You can't pass the buck to the tooth brush, hygienist or spinach."

"The greatest of the present day fads has been the over emphasis of the tooth brush and that old slogan, 'a clean tooth never decays.' The public has been led to believe that children's teeth decay because they weren't brushed enough, and that a few visits to the dentist will make them as good as new. As a matter of fact, both these impressions are false, and are apt to do harm rather than good."

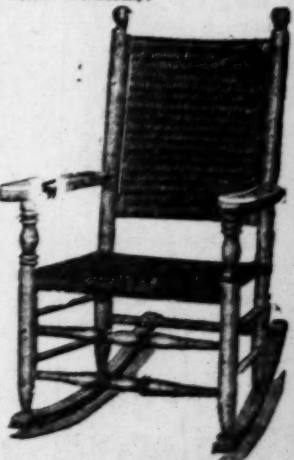

"Examination of school children shows the tooth brush is a small factor in preventing decay, and we know that the dentist cannot make badly decayed and abscessed teeth as good as new."

"Do not get the impression that I am condemning the tooth brush. I believe its use is a valuable habit and should be encouraged. It helps to promote health just as other habits of cleanliness, but as a preventive of decay it cannot compare with diet and early dental care."

URGES LINDBERGH LETTERS BY AIR MAIL

Maj. Lambert Asks Admirers of Flyer to Aid Cause of Aviation.

Admirers of Capt. Lindbergh were urged to send their congratulations to him by air mail, in the following statement issued yesterday by Maj. Albert Bond Lambert, one of Lindbergh's financial backers and a leader for many years in the promotion of aviation here.

"All citizens of Missouri and particularly of St. Louis can individually express their admiration and appreciation by sending an air mail letter to Capt. Lindbergh to be delivered to him on his triumphal return in New York from Paris. The postmaster of New York has offered his service in the delivery of these letters.

"Address the letters to Capt.
Charles A. Lindbergh, care of Postmaster, New York.

"Place an air mail stamp (10 cents) on the envelope and mark the envelope 'air mail. Ten cents in stamps will do if air mail stamps are not available, but be sure to mark it 'AIR MAIL'.

"Drop the letter in your neighborhood letter box. Do it today.
If mailed during the early part of the day, it will reach New York the next morning. There it will be taken care of by the New York postmaster until Capt.
Lindbergh arrives and will then be delivered to him.

"These letters will be carried by the regular air mail service out of St. Louis. The pilots of this service are the chums and close associates of Capt. Lindbergh, who is a former air mail pilot, where he gained his experience.

"We know that Capt. Lindbergh will appreciate and want these letters. These letters will be counted from day to day and results reported to St. Louis.

"Be sure and give your name and address. A photograph of Capt. Lindbergh or the Spirit of St. Louis may be the reply. In any event some form of reply will be made."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 24.—
A jury of eight women and four men today will receive the case of Paul Kelly, film juvenile, on trial for murder in connection with the death of Ray Raymond, stage song

Final arguments in the trial

wife of Raymond and the admitted cause of the fight between the two men which the State contends resulted in injuries which caused Raymond's death. Deputy District Attorney Forrest Murray referred to her as "a miserable little soul who blackened the character of her dead husband to aid her lover

ROW IN NEW YORK OVER BANQUET TO CAPT. LINDBERGH

Theodore Roosevelt Withdraws From Plan for Dinner Pending Flyer's Approval of Affair.

From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 24.—While an enthusiastic Paris continued yesterday to celebrate the arrival of Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, New York began making plans to welcome home the 25-year-old flyer, who had successfully accomplished what was hailed as the most romantic one-man feat in history. Mayor Walker, in a brief statement, said the city administration would co-operate fully in making Lindbergh's homecoming an event long to be remembered. The Mayor has been one of the most enthusiastic admirers of the young flyer since Lindbergh's arrival a short time ago. Walker said: "The people of New York City are impatient in their anxiety to greet Capt. Charles Lindbergh and to make his reception here a memorial event. The city administration intends to co-operate fully with the enthusiasm and anxious expectation which thrills and enthralls the city and to provide for this heroic young American a municipal welcome which citizens of our city are eager to give him."

Misunderstanding Creeps In. So enthusiastic has the reception epidemic become that misunderstandings have sprung up over the form the welcome is to take. D. F. Mahoney, head of the Ryan Air Lines, which built Lindbergh's plane, said the flyer had not authorized a testimonial dinner of the American sportsmen, planned by a group of men headed by Richard R. Sinclair.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt, who had consented to take the role of master, said he had withdrawn from the affair last Sunday, after he had forbidden Sinclair to use his name until it was made certain the dinner met with the approval of Lindbergh.

Sinclair said Lindbergh had approved of the function before he departed, in the event that his flight was successful. Major-General William N. Haskell, commanding officer of the 27th division, New York National Guard, pledged the co-operation of the airman of that organization in the welcome to the flyer in the following cablegram to Capt. Lindbergh.

"The 27th Division, air force and the entire New York National Guard, officers and men, send heartiest congratulations. Miller Field and all we have is yours on your return."

Ralph Jones, president of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, which had offered a $15,000 prize to the pilots of the Bellanca plane if they made the New York-Paris flight, since they were not entered for the Orteig $25,000 prize won by Capt. Lindbergh, said yesterday of the latter's trip: "I am delighted with the stirring achievement of Capt. Lindbergh. The success of the non-stop flight, in my judgment, typifies the American spirit in a most effective fashion. It is an impressive contribution to the scene of aviation, as well as a magnificent personal triumph, won with courage and skill. It was sportsmanship of the highest type to make the flight alone. It will promote American good will, not only in France, but throughout the world."

Await Aviator's Wishes. Grover Whalen, chairman of the Mayor's Committee on Reception, also the representative of Rodman Wanamaker, backer of the Byrd expedition, will be in charge of the welcome to Capt. Lindbergh. No definite plans can be made until the flyer's own plans for his return are known.

However, even before Lindbergh returns this city may have an opportunity of greeting his aviator. Both the United States Lines and the French Line yesterday offered Mrs. Lindbergh free transportation to join her son and also a return with him.

David A. Burke, general manager of United States Lines, cabled an invitation last Saturday to Lindbergh to return with his plane on any of the line's ships.

Mrs. Lindbergh, it was stated, would not decide whether to go to Paris until she learned from her son whether it was his wish that she do so. However, Lindbergh told the New York World and Post-Dispatch correspondent in Paris last night that he feared his stay in Europe would be too brief to permit his mother to reach there in time.

No word has been reached yet as to what Lindbergh will do with regard to the bewildering avalanche of offers he has received with his freshly won fame. He probably will not consider them for another day or two. Some friends of the aviator said they thought he would reject the hundreds of offers, totaling more than a million dollars, for his appearances in the movies, vaudeville and other enterprises. "I feel that Capt. Lindbergh will not want to appear in pictures or on the stage," said Mahoney. "He expressed himself on that point rather forcefully once or twice. But he probably will make a tour of the country, appearing in the larger cities, to give an account of his flight."

Chasing moths may be fine exercise

but it won't prevent moth-holes!

MOTHS lay eggs before they fly around! Those eggs hatch into the moth-worms that eat your clothes.

So you must mothproof the cloth itself to end moth-holes. Insecticides and "bug killers" won't do that. The only way to do it is with Larvex. Simply spray it on your clothes and they are mothproofed!

The colorless, odorless, non-inflammable liquid permeates the fabric—makes the cloth un-eatable to moth-worms. Then your clothes are safe anywhere. You don't have to pack them away in smelly moth-balls or bulky tar-bags.

Larvex is $1. In combination with the special atomizer, $1.50. 1/2 gallons, $3; gallons, $5. At drug, department and furniture stores. Get Larvex today—it's a lot less costly than moth-holes! The Larvex Corporation, 250 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y.

Bite yourself an Alphabet

My dear, pretzeleering is so educational

Really, you know, this younger generation is SUCH a problem. Why Junior just simply COULDN'T learn his letters until we PRETZELIZED him. Showed him how to BITE his alphabet. Simply MARVELOUS the progress he's making. You should SEE him spell out:

Juniors bite them. Then they eat them. There's no age limit for pretzeleering, particularly if you bite things out of O-So-Guds, made by Uneeda Bakers. They're crispy, and crunchy, and salty. They're good to eat and good for all who eat them.

Try O-So-Guds with soup, with salad, with cheese. Serve them with tea and iced drinks. Have them handy for between-meal nibbling.

The up-and-coming grocer in your neighborhood has plenty of pretzels made by Uneeda Bakers. Ask him.

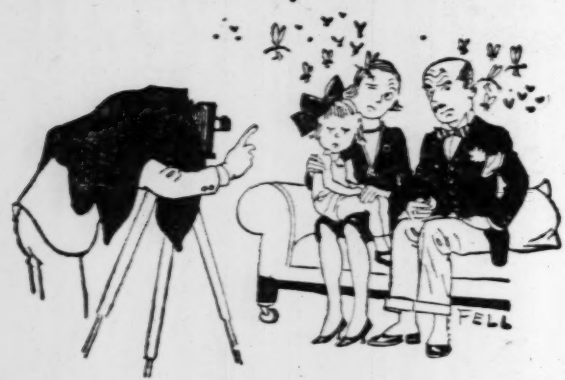

O-SO-GUD PRETZELS

We absolutely guarantee that every O-So-Gud is bent by an expert. Then are pretzels with a past—and a future.

No handlers are required to make Slim Jims. They're straight. Packed in handy packages.

SUPREME COURT RAKES COMMENT BY JUDGES

In Reversing Damage Verdict for Error, It Thrusts at Federal Practice.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, May 24.—(By the Post-Dispatch.)—The Federal court in commenting upon the evidence in instructions to juries, either by a change in the law or by the courts themselves, was predicted by Judge W. W. Graves of the Missouri Supreme Court in an opinion today. The opinion reversed a judgment of a St. Louis Circuit Court, given for the defendant in a personal injury damage suit, because of an erroneous instruction, and remanded the case for new trial.

Judge Graves held that the instruction, which informed the jury the United Railways Co. was not liable for injury to a passenger through a jerk or a jolt of one of its street cars, if such movement was a necessary incident to operation of the car, was not the law, and was an improper charge to the jury. The instruction was one offered by company attorneys and given to the jury by the Circuit Court. Judge Graves said the Supreme Court had previously ruled that starting a car with a violent jerk was negligence for which the company was liable.

"It is clear that the party who drew the instruction had been drawing inspiration from the Federal courts," Judge Graves wrote. "Suffice it to say that but few states tolerate undue comments upon the evidence in the case, and less of them tolerate usurpation of the jury's province by the court, and most certainly Missouri is not one of the number which tolerate either practice."

"Speaking not as a prophet, but only as one who can hear the muttering of an on-coming storm, and visualize the outcome thereof it is safe to say the present Federal practices in these regards will be wiped out by statutes, if not corrected by the courts. If we are to have jury trials at all, both court and jury should be kept strictly within their respective fields of action in the course of the trial."

The case was a suit by Mrs. Elizabeth M. Laible, 72 years old, of St. Louis, for injuries alleged to have been sustained on April 9, 1922, on a Grand boulevard car she had boarded at Grand boulevard and Chestnut avenue. The car started with a violent jerk, she charged, throwing her to the floor. The jury returned a verdict for the United Railways Co.

REAL ESTATE RECEIVER NAMED

$150,000 Holdings Placed in Court Officers Hands.
Real estate valued at $150,000 and owned jointly by Harry J. Klingner, commission merchant at 817 Easton avenue, and his wife, Mrs. Norma Klingner, was placed in the hands of Alex R. A. Garesche, as temporary receiver, by Circuit Judge Hartmann yesterday.

Mrs. Klingner has sued for divorce charging general indignities and has asked for an accounting of income from property at 4217 Easton, 4217 Easton, and 4525-27 McMillan avenue. She alleged her husband had been collecting rents and refusing to surrender her share of the income.

Boy Runs Into Truck, Injured.
William Wilson Jr., 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson of 1844 Park avenue, suffered a fracture of the skull shortly after noon today when he ran into the side of a truck in front of his home and was knocked down. The driver, Raymond Aiken, of 4933 South Broadway, was held.

Verree Teesdale, Actress, to Wed.
NEW YORK, May 24.—Verree Teesdale of Spokane, Wash., star of "The Constant Wife," is to be a wife. She is to marry William O'Neal of San Antonio, Tex., actor, at the little church around the corner.

WINS SECOND

ROUND MATCH

Defeats Andreu 6-2, 6-2, 6-0—Hunter Downs Persin, 6-4, 6-3, 6-2—Both Drew Byes in First Round.

By the Associated Press.

SAINT CLOUD, France, May 24.—William T. Tilden and Frances Hunter, invading American stars, today advanced the third round of the international hardcourt singles championships.

Tilden advanced by defeating Senor Andreu of Spain in easy fashion, 6-2, 6-2, 6-0. Hunter's victory over Alphonse Persin, ranking No. 15 on the French list, came less easily by a 6-4, 6-3, 6-2 count.

Tilden and Hunter both received byes in the first round.

J. H. Van Allen, another American player, gained the second round by defeating Pierre Landry, ranked among the first five French players. Landry, who took the courts with a high fever, abandoned the match after winning the first set 6-3 and losing the second, 5-7.

A young American Junior, Sidney B. Wood Jr., won a bitterly fought contest from Pierre Barrelet Derou, leading French Junior, 6-6, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. Interest among the spectators rivaled that shown the Tilden-Andreu match.

Senorita Awerant, of Spain, also played remarkable tennis in winning her first round match in the women's singles from Mlle. Holsuch, 6-2, 6-1.

LORD DERBY'S SICKLE MADE FAVORITE FOR GREAT EPSOM CLASSIC

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 24.—Lord Derby's "Sickle" has emerged from the uncertainty of the last few days as the favorite for the Derby. Sickle had a slight margin in London betting today over Call Boy, Frank Curzon's big colt, who had been favorite in the winter books. Sickle was backed to nine to two against whereas Call Boy was at five to one, a shade longer odds. The great Epsom classic will be run on June 1, with about 24 horses at the barrier.

BATON ROUGE, La., May 24.—
More than 600,000 persons are homeless as the result of the Mississippi flood, Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, said in an address yesterday.

We must consider it an obliga-

Hoover said that at his request

campaign to find from the bankers

Hoover said, "but with the owned corporations the resources rehabilitation "can be built more than $5,000,000."

Hoover said there were other sources which additional funds could be obtained if necessary.

U. S. INCOME FOR 1926
WAS $78,649,000,000

BILLION GAIN OVER 1925

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 24.—
The national income of the United States was $78,649,- 000,000 in the year 1926, as against $77,313,000,000 in the preceding year and $70,768,000,- 000 in 1924, according to a study of national income and wealth made by the National Industrial Conference Board.
Measuring the national income in terms of dollars of constant purchasing power, that is in "1913 dollars," so as to eliminate the violent price fluctuations during the war period,
the Conference Board finds that the "real" national income increased 54.8 per cent, or by more than half, from 1909 to 1926, inclusive. Dividing the entire time into three periods, it was found that from 1909
to 1914, it increased 27 per cent; from 1914 to 1920 only 11.4 per cent, but 26.6 per cent from 1920 to 1926.

I. C. C. AUTHORIZES TWO ROADS
TO MAKE TEXAS EXTENSIONS

Commission Holds Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific Expansions Warranted, Despite Duplications.

Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 24.—The Southern Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads today were authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to proceed with all of the extensions which they had proposed in the Brownsville (Tex.)
area.

Although the projects of the two railroads provide for some duplication of facilities and each of the companies has opposed the program of the other, the commission decided that sufficient traffic was in sight to maintain all of the mileage which was proposed.

The San Antonio & Arkansas Pass Co., which is owned by the Southern Pacific, therefore, was permitted to build from Harlingen into Brownsville, a distance of 30 miles, at an estimated cost of $1-580,000.

The Missouri Pacific, which owns the San Benito and Rio Grande Valley railroads, was permitted to build two branches to that system, one running eastward from Brownsville, Texas, and the other extending eastward from San Benito to a point in Cameron County, 18 miles distant. The principal object of the San Benito branches will be to increase the service to the agricultural territory, while the Southern Pacific extension will give that company, through a connection with the Rio Grande Valley, access to a line directly into Point Isabel on the Gulf of Mexico.

Holy Office Condemns as Class Pornographic Works Has-

ROME, May 24.—The large volume of immorality, literature masquerading under the cloak of mysticism, with religious scenes and characters introduced to palliate obscene passages, has led the Holy Office to issue a special declaration condemning such books as a class. All Bishops are directed to see that Catholics refrain from reading such literature.

Hitherto the Holy See has condemned books individually by name, author and title, but the output has grown so recent years that the index method is considered no longer practicable.

The function of the Holy Office is to exercise supervision over doctrine and morals. It was founded in the sixteenth century and reorganized by Pope Benedict XV.
Pope Pius XI is its present and Cardinal Merry del Val is secretary.

SACCO-VANZETTI
PLEA FOR SPECIAL
BOARD IS DENIED

Gov. Fuller of Massachusetts Says He Will Not Appoint Commission to Review Cases.

MUST ACT ALONE
AND IN OWN WAY

Forbidden by Law to Delegate Authority, Executive Feels Free to Investigate
as He Sees Fit.

By the Associated Press.
BOSTON, May 24.—Gov. Alvan
T. Fuller, in a letter to the Sacco-Vanzetti defense committee, made public today, made his first definite statement that he would not grant the repeated requests for appointment of a special commission to review the cases of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals, convicted of murder and sentenced to death.

The Governor indicated that since he could not delegate his authority, which now is the sole thing standing between the two men and death in the electric chair in July,
he considered himself entirely free to choose his own method of investigation.

The defense committee had written him on April 11 and again on May 20 urging that he appoint a commission to investigate the whole history of the case since the murder of a paymaster and his guard in South Braintree seven years ago.

Text of Fuller's Reply.
Gov. Fuller's note in reply read:
"I assume that you know that the Governor cannot delegate his authority in this matter and that the law provides that the decision must be made by him. It therefore seems reasonable that he should choose the method of investigation."

"I will provide an opportunity for an interview for you at a later date."
The condemned men have no further recourse in the courts of this State. The Governor, however, has the right of pardon or of commutation of sentence. Since the death sentence was pronounced, every mail has brought him petitions, letters, cables and telegrams, some asking an investigation, some demanding full liberty for the men, and some urging non-interference with the course of the courts.
These communications have reached a total well up in the thousands.

While it has been commonly known that the Governor, assisted by the Lieutenant-Governor and his personal attorney, has been devoting long days to interviewing witnesses, attorneys and others who have been connected with investi-

Governor until today had given no direct intimation to substantiate
the common belief that his decision would be based on his own investigation.

LABOR DISPUTE IN PANAMA
American Employes on Canal Op-

By the Associated Press.
PANAMA CITY, May 24.—
American employes at the Panama Canal have adopted a resolution condemning activities of the Panama Association of Commerce against the commissary system in Panama. These activities, the resolution says, is inimical to the interests of the employes and is not justified by the facts.

No definite decision concerning the suggested boycott by the Panama Canal employes of Panama merchants was reached, nor has word been received from President William Green of the American Federation of Labor concerning an expected conference on the boycott matter.

NICARAGUAN LIBERAL LEADER

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, May 24.—Dr.
Juan Sacasa, who left Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, last week after having been at the head of a Liberal government set up there for five months, has arrived at San Jose, Costa Rica, according to advices from that city to Pedro Zepeda, Liberal representative here.
The advices said that Dr. Sacasa and his Cabinet had arrived by ship at Fort Limon, Honduras, and had proceeded by special train to San Jose.

Zepepa also made public a protest by Dr. Sacasa to American Secretary of State Kellogg against the disarmament agreement made in Nicaragua by Henry L. Simson, personal representative of President Coolidge. It was stated that a copy of this protest had been sent to the foreign ministers of Latin-American countries.

A letter from Dr. Sacasa's Foreign Secretary also has been sent to the Latin-American foreign ministers stating that the Liberal President was being forced to Liberal forces had decided to continue fighting.

ADVERSE REPORT ON MOVE

River Barge Line's Effort to Force
Co-Operation Not Justified; L.
C. C. Is Informed.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 24.—An adverse report was made to the Interstate Commerce Commission
today on the application of the Upper Mississippi Barge Line that railroads be required to co-operate in rail and water movement of freight. The report was submitted at the end of a preliminary investigation.

The boat line undertook to begin operations on the Mississippi this spring, with the support of the War Department and backed by the business interests of the Twin Cities in Minnesota.

The complaint proposed that on traffic from Chicago to the Twin Cities, the railroads should turn over freight to the boats at Dubuque, Ia., and that the joint rates be lower than the all-rail rates—by amounts equal to 20 per cent of the existing rail rates between Dubuque and the Twin Cities.

An examiner for the Commission held that difficulties of navigation and other conditions did not justify the action.

BERLIN, May 24.—German women do not differ such a great deal from American women. So far as I could see they are interested in the following things—at the age of eight they like to linger
in front of toy-shops and admire
the dolls in the windows, at the age of 15 they look at clothes and men; at the age of 25 their chief interest seems to be the jewelry shop; at 35 the coiffeur and beauty specialist loom large in their lives; at 45 they look at men and at the age of 55 they have more than a nodding acquaintance with the doctor and the pharmacist.

The world has grown used to the picture of the typical German woman as a good-natured, smiling rather voluminous matron with blond hair, like Gretchen in Faust.
A walk past the smart stores Unter den Linden and a visit to one of the thousand hair-palaces of Berlin will soon dispel that vision.

War Made Change.
The average woman is just as bobbed, independent, sophisticated, chic, short-skirted and attractive as the Parisienne or the American. They can Charleston, know how to operate the lip-stick, want to be good fellows, adore the movie shocks and wear their clothes
according to the latest fashion.

As in France and England, the war forced women into occupations and trades that they never had dreamed of entering. But once there they have established themselves for good. To have women private secretaries, women conductors on subway trains, police women, women barbers and no end of typists and factory girls, of course.

Fifteen per cent of the students in the medical department of the University of Berlin are girls. Many government employment offices are run by women. Germany has its own evangelists and its woman boxing champion. More than half the scientific lectures that were announced on the program in Berlin
this week were given by women,
one of them by Marshal Ludendorff's new wife, which might have been a translation of some Kleigle's speech before the Klonovocation of the Klan, so violently did that lady denounce Jewish, Jews and Free-Masons as enemies of the Fatherland and responsible for the defeat of the imperial armies.

Germany has several distinguished women who are painters,
one of them being Frau Liebermann, wife of the famous painter.
Twenty-five per cent of the scenarios of motion pictures running in the country were written by women, the most notable being "Metropolis," the work of Thea von Harbou, wife of Fritz Lang, a film director.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Mexican Petroleum Law.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN YOUR editorial of May 4, entitled "Viscount Cowdray," you indicate that you are under somewhat of a misapprehension as to what the new Mexican petroleum law requires and the present attitude of the Mexican Eagle Oil Co.

You speak about some Americans refusing to submit their titles to the inspection of the Mexican Government. No such submission of titles is provided for in the new Mexican petroleum law. What that law requires is that the nation's title be recognized and that the owners of petroleum properties and petroleum rights acquired before May 1, 1917, accept in lieu of their previous private titles, concessions emanating from the Government as the new title holder. The transfer of title from the previous private owners to the nation, if it has been accomplished, has been accomplished merely by a declaration of the nation's ownership in the Mexican Constitution and petroleum law, with exactly no more formality than would be present if I simply declared that the watch in your pocket is my property, and proceeded under such a declaration to force you in some manner to acknowledge my ownership.

However, under the police regulations issued several years ago by the Mexican Government regarding the granting of drilling permits and again by an order of the President issued last summer, all oil companies have been required to submit their titles to the inspection of the Mexican Government, in order to obtain drilling permits. Therefore, on different occasions, practically all of the titles to the properties involved in the present international controversy have been submitted to the Mexican Government, approved by it and recognized in the issuance of drilling permits.

In this manner, of course, the titles to the former Cowdray properties have been submitted to inspection by the Mexican Government, consisting of applications for drilling permits, just as have the titles to most other oil properties in Mexico. But if you mean by your statement that the Mexican Eagle Oil Co. or the Royal Dutch Shell have submitted to the new petroleum law in Mexico by applying for and accepting concessions in lieu of their previous private titles, your statement is inaccurate. The Royal Dutch Shell group of companies operating in Mexico are among the companies which the Mexican Government has recently characterized as the rebellious companies.

Who Started St. Louis' First Kindergarten?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOTICED in your paper this week an erroneous answer to one of the questions in "What Do You Know?" The question was, "Who introduced the kindergarten in St. Louis?" Answer was, "Mr. W. T. Harris."

The kindergarten was introduced in St. Louis some time in the early '70s. I think Mr. Harris was superintendent of our schools at that time, but kindergarten was introduced in St. Louis by Miss Susan E. Blow, who was a prominent citizen of South St. Louis.

She studied kindergarten under Frederick Froebel, the founder of this most worthy and interesting department of education, and developed it at child's home for 6 years. Miss Blow, on returning to St. Louis, her native city, gave to our schools the benefit of her knowledge freely and enthusiastically, without any remuneration whatever. Her instruction was the Des Peres School, in South St. Louis. ONE WHO LOVES THE KINDERGARTEN AND OUR CITY. Miss E. Blow started the first kindergarten in St. Louis, under the superintendency of Dr. W. T. Harris, one of the greatest educational leaders of his time. But for his hearty support Miss Blow could have done nothing. So, in a sense, he must be credited with the success of this movement for the education of the very young.—Ed. P.-D.

"Service Before Self."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

BEING a member of the St. Louis Wholesale Drug Co., I experience a thrill as Mr. A. Greig recounts, through the medium of your columns, the very wise, friendly, neighborly, helpful, hard-headed business policy adopted by our company towards former neighbor-customers located in the flooded districts—said policy being in part "placing our entire resources at the disposal of those retail druggists who have lost their life or entered serious losses." Of course we all recognize the above adopted policy to be in essence a clean-cut exemplification of that wonderful Rotarian Christian slogan, "Service before self." Mr. Greig also steps boldly forth and suggests that for the benefit and well-being of all concerned, in the matter of the "wretched international debt"—the United States of America adopt a similar policy.

Might it not be the part of wisdom even from the very low motive of expediency to follow out Mr. Greig's suggestion?

LAW OVER JUSTICE.

The case of Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney should not be left where it is. Manifestly, she is not guilty of any abuse of free speech nor of anything that can be construed as a crime except by ingenious interpretation of California's antisocialism act.

The California act is apparently violative of the fundamental right of free speech and free assembly, which are guaranteed by the Constitution. But the Supreme Court of the United States, in deciding this case, failed to go through form to reality. Like the Massachusetts higher court in passing upon the Sacco-Vanzetti case, the Supreme Court decided questions of law, but did not touch justice.

The issue presented to the court was the right of the states to pass laws in restraint of speech and assembly when either would violently menace the existence of the state and peace and good order within its boundaries. As Justice Brandeis pointed out, the essential question in passing upon state laws in restraint of any of the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution, depended not only upon the content of the laws but the conditions under which they were adopted and enforced. He pointed out that a law in restriction of free speech and free assembly must be justified by the circumstances, by conditions of great peril. Justice Brandeis said:

To justify suppression of free speech there must be reasonable ground to fear that serious evil will result if free speech is practiced. There must be reasonable ground to believe that the danger apprehended is imminent. There must be reasonable ground to believe that the evil to be prevented is a serious one.

But even advocacy of violence, however reprehensible morally, is not a justification for denying free speech, where the advocacy falls short of incitement and there is nothing to indicate that the advocacy would be immediately acted on. Only an emergency can justify repression.

It is evident from the opinions of the court, particularly the interpretation of Justice Brandeis, approved by Justice Holmes, that if the question of the justification for the antisocialism law of California, or of Miss Whitney's guilt, had been passed upon, she would be free today. None of these definitions or interpretations affect her conviction under the antisocialism law, or her sentence to the penitentiary. Justice has failed, apparently, because law rules over justice in the courts.

Unless the Governor of California pardons Miss Whitney, and she refuses to ask for a pardon, she will go to the penitentiary. She will be the victim of injustice. Her case will be a reproach to America, and she will be a martyr, adding fresh fuel to the flame of anarchical agitation.

The Supreme Court opinions are a warning to the states not to abuse the police power by unreasonable restrictions. The rights of free speech and of free assembly and of liberty in general are seriously menaced in this country. They have been attacked, and if the tendency to attack these rights is not curbed by the people, conditions will become far more dangerous to orderly government than any that could arise under the unlicensed exercise of these rights.

If the states, however, do abuse their power, Justice Brandeis has pointed out how to proceed to curb any offending state. The United States Supreme Court has not hesitated in other cases to invalidate laws aimed at the rights guaranteed by the Constitution. Ultimate action, however, in defense of their rights rests with the people.

BRAGGADOCIO IS THE WORD.

For the first time in the history of Pemiscot County, a Negro, already wounded with two shots from a constable's pistol, was taken out of the custody of the sheriff by a mob, strung up and filled with bullets. The lynching took place in the town of Braggadocio, which seems to have inhabitants worthy of that name.

Like all practitioners of braggadocio, the perpetrators of this deed have nothing to boast about. It is said the Negro confessed to his crime, he was in jail and there was nothing to prevent the quick and orderly working of the law. His wounded condition had reduced him to utter helplessness.

To mob this Negro required no more courage than it would to kill a sick cat. As is customary in lynching cases, the sheriff responsible for the prisoner failed to show fight. While he was attempting to dissuade the mob at the front door, some of its members slipped into the back door and got their man.

It was altogether a shameful and cowardly proceeding. Braggadocio is the word.

A FLYER'S LESSON.

This flight of Lindbergh's, what does it mean? Beyond its character as an epic of courage and confidence in aviation, has it any concrete influence on the advancement of the flying business? Does it prove anything more than the towering courage of the lean youngster from St. Louis?

Even before there has been opportunity for mature discussion of the technical phases of the flight, it is safe to say that it will have a tremendous influence on the further development of commercial aviation, because it proves many things whose demonstration is essential to public acceptance of flying as a normal, speedy means of transportation.

First of all, the flight furnished a grueling test for Lindbergh's motor, one of the air-cooled radials that have all but revolutionized flying. That the flyer himself was confident it would perform, is evidenced by the fact that he trusted his life to it. It is inevitable that the non-flying public will come to know, through much open discussion, that here is a power plant that does not fail, that it is reliable, sturdy and dependable.

It was this engine that carried Chamberlin and Acosta aloft for 51 hours of continuous flight and died only when the gasoline was exhausted. It was three of these power plants that carried Commander Byrd and Floyd Bennett to the North Pole and performed faultlessly.

Again, Lindbergh's flight is a splendid proof of the proposition that the monoplane, and not the biplane, is the ideal plane for commercial work. Although he undoubtedly recognized that the biplane, because of its greater maneuverability, will be the favored military machine for a long time to come, Lindbergh knew that the monoplane can carry greater loads and can keep up with the biplane on speed.

Byrd used a monoplane. So did Chamberlin and Acosta. So did Commander de Bernardi in winning the Schneider Cup. And so does de Pinedo, the greatest distance flyer of all time. They are proving to the public, these airmen, that flying is a safe business, a practicable business, a pursuit that is more and more vitally to be linked with the world's progress. They are the world's preceptors for the doctrine of flying's utility. If they accomplish no other end, no immediately practical purpose, they have still done flying a service of inestimable value.

JUDGE HAND'S ELEVATION.

It is gratifying to learn that Judge Augustus N. Hand of the Southern District of New York has been elevated to the Circuit Court of Appeals. In the war period of ten years ago, Judge Hand was one of the few outstanding Federal judicial officers who refused to take the view that war suspended our constitutional guarantees, and it was felt that he had placed himself forever under the displeasure of the Department of Justice which may reward or punish Federal Judges who thwart its policies.

The charge of Judge Hand to the jury in the espionage case against Max Eastman was so deeply resented that the Department of Justice ignored it in its bulletins sent out to all Federal attorneys and Judges, and it procured a repudiation of it. In this charge Judge Hand declared:

It is the constitutional right of every citizen to express his opinion about the war or the participation of the United States in it; about the desirability of peace; about the merits or demerits of conscription, and about the moral rights and claims of conscientious objectors to be exempt from conscription. It is the constitutional right of every citizen to express such opinions, even though they are opposed to the opinions or policies of the administration; and even though the expression of such opinion may unintentionally or indirectly discourage recruiting and enlistment.

But for this sound construction of the right of freedom of speech—that the words uttered must in themselves urge resistance to law—there was ultimately substituted the tyrannical view that the words uttered need have only a "tendency" to cause unrest among the soldiers or to make recruiting more difficult. And since intention was inferred from the "tendency" the Espionage act became an instrument for the easy suppression of all frank utterance.

HARRY SENDS HIS REGRETS.

We have already acknowledged our error in failing to provide for nabobs like Harry Sinclair a houseguest suitable to their station in life. Obviously it is a dreadful breach of taste to confine an emperored sovereign of the oil world in a common jail. Our worries, on that score, however, have been somewhat relieved by Harry himself.

Harry has decided not to go to jail at all. He turned Justice Hitz down after the Justice had invited him to spend three months in the humble little jail at Washington. After all, an oil king gets so many invitations to parties, receptions, balls, shindigs that he can't possibly accept every one of them. Besides, Harry has got to the point where he doesn't like Washington as much as he used to. It's really very hot there in the summer, and what with hunting lodges in the pine-forests of the north woods, yachts on the sea and the like, there are really better ways to spend one's summer.

After Justice Hitz sent Sinclair, the latter took a train for New York, and thought it all over on the way. Ordinarily Harry sends a little note by one of his secretaries when he can't be some place, but this time he just told the reporters when he arrived that he wasn't going to jail, that he had other plans. From Harry's tone and manner, it seems useless to urge him. He always was an obstinate chap.

MR. STEVENS' LETTER.

In the Letters From the People column, Guy Stevens, director of the Association of Producers of Petroleum in Mexico, comments upon a recent editorial of ours on the late Viscount Cowdray, the British oil magnate.

Only one of the points in Mr. Stevens' letter, we believe, calls for comment by us—to wit: his denial that the Mexican Eagle Oil Co. and the Royal Dutch Shell have submitted to the new Mexican oil law. In contrast to this, we wish to refer him to two important pieces of testimony. One is the statement of the Mexican Department of Commerce and Industry, made public on February 18, saying that these companies have recognized the law as applying to most of their lands, and that most of their production is coming from the lands submitted to the statute. The other piece of testimony is to the same effect, is based upon the records of the Mexican Government, and is presented in an article by Carleton Beals, in the New Republic for Feb. 23.

Here, apparently, is a contradiction for which it is difficult to imagine an explanation. Is it possible that the Mexican Government has mistaken the application of companies for drilling permits as equivalent to submission to the new oil law and requests for concessions? Or is it possible, on the other hand, that Mr. Stevens and his association have mistaken the submission of companies to the law and their requests for concessions as merely applications for drilling permits?

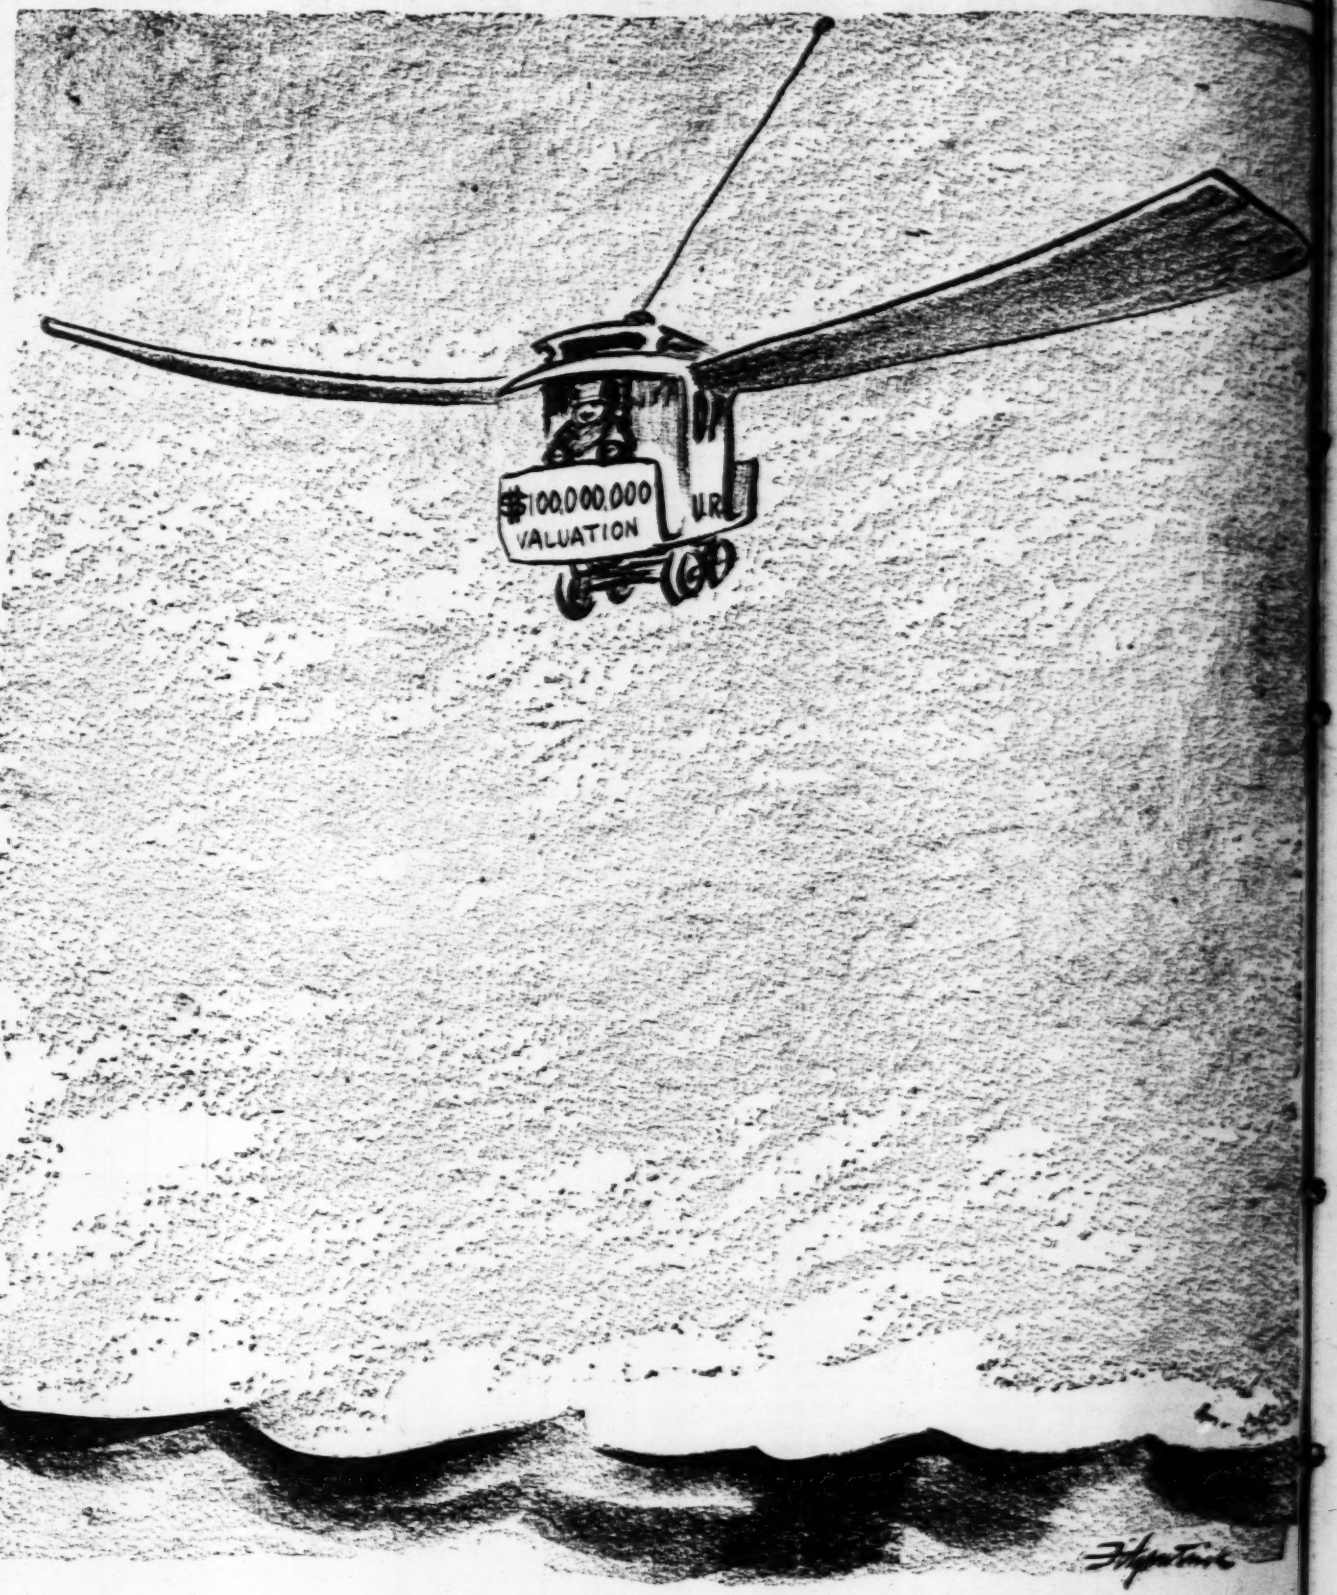

Neither supposition appears likely, but, if neither is true, the disparity between Mr. Stevens' statement and the statistics of the Mexican Government is mystifying.

WARNING TO NORDIC BLONDS.

The only person who might suffer by reason of Lindbergh's feat is Leif Ericson, the Nordic Blond candidate for the honor of having discovered America. Lindbergh, who has a Nordic name, has performed a stunt so much more daring and brilliant than that credited to Leif that the latter may be dwarfed by the former in the opinion of Nordics.

But before the Nordic Blond worshippers go so far as to denigrate the idol they have so long venerated, we would whisper a word of warning to their ears. Though Lindbergh's name sounds Nordic, we would remind them that he professedly did not travel in a "ship" which may be so called. That craft was made by the Ryan Airplane Co., which has a gentleman named Mahoney for president.

So the Nordic Blonds, if they are to take full credit for the Lindbergh feat, must prove that the names Ryan and Mahoney are of Nordic derivation. Of course, we don't know whether this little thing will present any difficulties to those who have for some time been trying to make Christopher Columbus play second fiddle to Leif Ericson. But we want to warn the Nordics that it looks to us like a feat almost comparable to Lindbergh's.

SOMEONE WHO HASN'T LANDED YET.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

A TRAGEDY OF ERRORS.

From the Springfield Republican.

NO pardon from the Governor of California will be asked by Miss Charlotte Anita Whitney, whose last hope of a favorable court review of her case vanished Monday in the United States Supreme Court's unanimous decision sustaining the California criminal syndicalism statute. The Supreme Court considered only the constitutionality of the statute. The facts of the Whitney case did not concern it. Justice Holmes and Brandeis publicly regretted that they could not rule on the question whether her acts violated the law.

Miss Whitney happens to have high social standing and distinguished ancestry. One of her uncles was Justice Stephen J. Field, for many years on the bench of the United States Supreme Court. But that is beside the point. She has received no favors because of her social or family connections, and she refuses to ask a pardon because she insists that she is not conscious of having done anything wrong. She now faces a term of imprisonment.

Her plight is a tragedy of errors out of which the courts have been unable or indisposed to extricate her. The truth must be that when the trial was held, in 1918 or 1920, popular feeling in California, of all colors and stripes, and that the jury reflected the feeling in Miss Whitney's case.

The State of California is too harsh in its treatment of Miss Whitney, if the conviction is to stand unmitigated by executive clemency. The courts have failed to allow the slightest relief. Justice does not function in a person who abhors violence and terrorism is imprisoned for having become entangled with an organization whose real objectives he did not comprehend.

JEFFERSON AT CHURCH.

From the Pathfinder.

ALTHOUGH Thomas Jefferson was not a communicant of any church, he frequently attended the Episcopal services at Charlottesville. For many years there was no church building in the vicinity and the courthouse was the only place of worship. The four leading denominations in the county divided the Sabbath equally among them. The Episcopalians, as well as the other three denominations, holding services every fourth Sunday. Mr. Jefferson used to come down from his mountain at Monticello on horseback, bringing his seat with him. The service consisted of a light folding chair of his own invention. He would enter the courthouse with the device under his arm, unfold it, place it on the floor and then sit down among the others.

A GOOD WORD FOR THE DULL BOY.

From the New York Times.

WELCOME news for the boy who is slow in his school work has come out of a teachers' conference in England. With warm and lay weather coming on, when even the brightest find it hard to put his thoughts on his books, it is comforting to know that somewhere there is abundant sympathy for the overgrown, inattentive, stupid boy. The Morning Post reports that at the Margate conference "there was positive glorification of the child who is dull at school."

It was said that classification of children

by age alone is unsound. "Native ability, the power to progress, environment, home surroundings, medical record, and often the condition of the school," should enter into the question. No two children are born with exactly like capacities or with equal power to advance.

Geniuses who were classified as dunces in their youth were often for the defense aroused young Lindbergh to his day. "The Norseman's blood has ever been inherent in the conqueror's way!" They lecture on all theory And brand us with each ruling rod. Yet what can match that reverend Along Death's race, from man, who God?"

He listened not to thoughts of fear. But hastened to that spirit's tread. Where two like him gave chase to dark To morrant solitude, as friend:

Who proved the test, "The spirit true In self-assurance shall not fail. The heart, not sworn to lawless tread, Shall find, at most, some holy goal!"

So would I ride the comet's tail. And dare death thus to life's last end. Since Soul was never known to fail. Adventuring before—

The Anti-Saloon League wants a Prohibition Commissioner who is in sympathy with the dry law, but not because the dry law needs sympathy.

According to Andre Tardieu, the French Government wants American tourists to know they will be welcome in France. Proper way to begin, it strikes us, is to spread the good news among French school keepers.

A church in Chicago has started sending for officers before the Sunday game, merely goes to show how little some people know of golf.

Anyway, modern styles help preserve the life of the ardent young swimmer who is dying to see "his sweetheart."

could hardly continue to be alluring. Is it not because of some hopeful sense of superiority that anyone strives in youth; and is it not because of a growing suspicion of that highly beneficial early faith that so many lives are saddened after forty? However grudgingly an individual may have been endowed by Fortune, there is pretty certain to be some secret source of pride, that however pathetic it might seem if revealed to unsympathetic eyes, is blessedly sufficient for survival and endeavor.

Every age in turn is modern, and yet every age seems to itself the first to have attained that astonishing eminence from which young eyes may look down upon the fairy flatlands of the past that somehow never knew that they were funny.

This essentially naive view of past and present is particularly in evidence now, for we have become superlatively sophisticated. There was a time when alfalfa and corn, for instance, were really taken rather seriously; but now when a wasteful member of the intelligent class refers to the corn belt or the alfalfa regions we just can't keep our faces straight. As a matter of fact, people used to be "awful funny." The women actually used to wear skirts that swept the earth and corsets and haqueps and huge balloon-like sleeves. Perfectly absurd! And fellows used to take their girls riding in buggies of a Sunday afternoon, or perhaps there were a jolly trolley ride out past the waterworks! These were the days of the Gibson Girl and "Annie Rooney" and tandem bicycles and wooden Indians in front of all cigar stores and bicycle races and old fashioned political rallies with torch-light processions and hoarse huzzas, and the shirt-waist and the bloomer-wearing, bike-riding woman (shame on the name) and of the heavily padded, long-skirted bathing suits for ladies. Those times, to see a lady's ankle was a rare and exciting experience.

Yet it is not recorded that anyone in those days was clever enough to see how funny it all was. This only goes to show how discerning we are now. Just how

16 AMERICANS TO BE PRESENTED AT COURT

F. O. Lowden's Daughter Among Those Going to Buckingham Palace Tonight.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, May 24.—Sixteen Americans will be among the many foreign women presented to King George and Queen Mary at Buckingham Palace by the wives of the Ambassadors. It will be the first court of the season and hundreds of debutantes and others will throng the Palace.

At 8:20 the Palace will be opened for the reception of the guests. The first car will take their place at 8:30 as early as 5 p. m.

Final rehearsals were arranged yesterday for those who are to be presented. Most of the teachers are titled ladies, who give the lessons in court etiquette, as a means of earning pin money. Their charge ranges from $20 to $60 for two or three lessons.

The American women who will be presented are:

In the diplomatic circle: Madames Arthur Atkins, Old Lyme, Conn.; William Cooper, New York; James Orville, Gwynne, Pittsburgh; Robert Harmon, Sheridan, Wyo.; Robert Kirkpatrick, Dethan, Ala.; Charles Lynn, Wash., D. C.; Madam Florence Lowden, Oregon, Ill. (daughter of Frank O. Lowden, former Governor of Illinois), and Catherine, Wellington of East Aurora, New York.

In the general circle: Madames Frederick Atherton, Washington, Edwin Grosvenor, Washington, Conna, Franklin Pepper, Philadelphia.

We are assured that the way for a return to the confidence of his boy is to spend a lot of time with him. On the other hand, some fathers like an occasional evening at home.

There Shall Be Other Laughers

THE GAY NINETIES. An Album of Reminiscence Drawings. By R. V. Culter (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

It is doubtless good that every new generation should feel a trifle cocky in contemplating the outmoded ideals and fashions of the old folks. Were it not so, life would be a little less amusing. It is funny if it all was as amply evidenced by the book of rather more than merely clever drawings here noted. R. V. Culter in "The Gay Nineties" has revived the spirit of those days with commendable fidelity, but it is obvious that Mr. Culter himself is no longer to be described as excessively young. One even suspects that he entertains a sneaking affection for his memories of that ridiculous era, for there is no sting to be felt in his laughter. It is as could hardly continue to be alluring. Is it not because of some hopeful sense of superiority that anyone strives in youth? And is it not because of a growing suspicion of that highly beneficial early faith that so many lives are saddened after forty? However grudgingly an individual may have been endowed by Fortune, there is proof to certain to be some secret source of pride, that however pathetic it might seem it revealed to unsympathetic eyes, is blessedly sufficient for survival and endeavor.

Every age in turn is modern, and yet every age seems to itself the first to have attained that astonishing eminence from which young eyes may look down upon the funny flatlands of the past that somehow never knew that they were funny.

This essentially naive view of past and present is particularly in evidence now, for we have become superlatively sophisticated. There was a time when alfalfa and corn, for instance, were really taken rather seriously, but now when a wagish member of the intelligentsia refers to the corn belt or the alfalfa regions we just can't keep our faces straight. As a matter of fact, people used to be "awful funny." The women actually used to wear skirts that swept the earth and corsets and basques and huge balloon-like sleeves. Perfectly side-splitting. And fellows used to take their girls riding in huggies of a Sunday afternoon, or perhaps they would be a jolly trolley ride out past the waterworks! Those were the days of the Gibson Girl and "Annie Rooney" and tandem bicycles and wooden Indians in front of all cigar stores and bicycle races and old fashioned political rallies with torch-light processions and hoarse huzzas, and the shirt waist and the bloomer-wearing, bike-riding women (shame on the hussy!) and of the heavily padded, long-skirted bathing suits for ladies. Those times, to see a lady's smile was a rare and exciting experience.

Yet it is not recorded that anyone in those days was clever enough to see how funny it all was. This only goes to show how deceiving we are now. Just how funny he smiled tenderly over his drawing and muttered to himself: "Yes we were funny, and we thought our fathers funny, for we were very modern. It is good that we should laugh with the very young at our old selves, lest the courage of the world should falter. "There shall be other laughers."

FOR PERFECT PERMANENT WAVING

One Circuline for each curl—in clear, fresh water.

The Charm of Wavy Hair with Perfect Safety

Mr. Charles Nessler, the original inventor of permanent waving, states that "Circuline represents the highest possible achievement in permanent waving, because it treats each bead of hair according to its individual requirements." That is why Circuline, unlike any other method of permanent waving, assures you of a wave just as tight or as loose as desired—as beautifully flowing as though Nature herself had waved it.

And not only is Circuline gentle, sure, absolutely free from any injurious chemicals such as lye, ammonia, potash, but it requires actually 100 degrees less heat than is necessary for a marcel wave.

But you are only sure of a Circuline Wave when your hairdresser uses authentic Circulines. You will recognize them as she immerses one for each curl in clear, fresh water. Each is individually wrapped, and stamped with the name "Nestle Circuline"—your assurance of a genuine Circuline Wave!

CHICAGO GANGSTERS INDICTED IN NEW YORK FOR KIDNAPING

One of Five Named in Taylor-Scharlin Case Arrested at Time Companion Was Slain.

NEW YORK, May 24.—Five men; four of them still at large, have been indicted by the grand jury charged with kidnaping James H. Taylor and Abraham Scharlin last month. Two indictments were returned against each yesterday.

Police believe seven gangsters from Chicago were involved. David Berman, one of the accused, who came from Chicago, is now in prison awaiting trial on a charge of first-degree assault in attempting to shoot a police detective when the latter tried to arrest him and Jack "Red" Thompson of Chicago, who was shot and killed by another officer during the scuffle. Thompson also was suspected of being one of the kidnapers.

Taylor and Scharlin were released by the abductors after Thompson was shot, and before ransom that had been demanded had been paid.

LOREE TO SUBMIT NEW PLAN FOR RAIL MERGER

Proposal Satisfactory to I. C. C.
Can Be Evolved for 3 Roads, He Believes.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 24.—A revised plan for the Southwest Railroad merger will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission, which last week rejected the original Loree proposal. It is announced at the offices of Leonard F. Loree, chairman of the Kansas City Southern, which was to be the nucleus of the consolidation. It was stated that "there is every reason to believe that a plan can be evolved that will be satisfactory to the commission."

Loree, who returned to New York yesterday, discussed the proposed merger plan with S. W. Moore, general counsel for the Kansas City Southern, and with bankers interested in the project. After the conference, it was declared no definite conclusion as to the procedure to be followed had yet been reached. It was pointed out that the commission, in its decision, stated that "the union of the three carriers herein proposed seems to be a not unnatural association"; that all its mileage would lie in the southwestern region, and that it would compare favorably with the other major systems in the territory. The three roads involved in the original Loree plan were the Kansas City Southern, St. Louis Southwestern and the Missouri-Kansas-Texas.

When State Treasurer.

By the Associated Press.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 24.—Arguments in Gov. Len Small's tax accounting suit started here yesterday. He is charged with withholding approximately $1,000,000 in state funds while he was treasurer. His young attorney and foster son, Werner Schroeder, pleaded with the master in chancery to find that Small owes the State nothing.

The arguments anticipated the near end of a case which has dragged its devious way through civil and commercial courts for five years. Schroeder, opening the arguments, declared Small, at the most, could be held liable only for interest actually paid him by State banks in which funds were deposited.

"But the facts in this evidence, presented only in the last 90 days, show that during Small's treasurer-ship interest on State funds totaled $450,016.72," and of this sum, $222,444.89, or nearly as much as all the other State banks combined, was paid by this 'myth,' this 'ghost,' the Grant Park Bank," said Schroeder.

Counsel for Small will continue this morning, resting at noon, when Special Assistant General Attorney Hadley will handle the case for the State. All arguments are expected to be completed Thursday.

OUTER PARK PLANS DEVELOP Regional Planning Federation Told of Progress of Project.

Plans for an outer park system for St. Louis are growing rapidly and Mayor Miller is considering means of acquiring land, E. J. Russell, chairman of the Regional Planning Federation and of the City Plan Commission of St. Louis, told the federation, meeting at the Granite City Y. M. C. A. last night. Members from St. Louis, St. Louis County and the East Side, attended.

Several speakers told of the need for better levees on the East Side, in view of breaks and threatened breaks in the recent flood here. They suggested that levees be beautified as parkways, with roads along their crests.

HAWES PLEADS FOR "OUTDOORS" PATRIOTS

Senator Tells Walton League Nature Pays Vast Dividends in Health and Prosperity.

The importance of keeping sizeable chunks of America's "big outdoors" in the State of Missouri was stressed last night by Senator Harry B. Hawes, in addressing hunters and fishermen of St. Louis and the State at the third annual convention dinner of the Missouri division of the Isaac Walton League, at the City Club.

Author of the "Black Bass" bill, prohibiting the sale of game fish throughout the country, Senator Hawes, himself a fisherman, pleaded for more conservation work throughout the State and country, as advocated by the league. "What is becoming of our 'big outdoors' of the animals, and birds, whose presence renewed the primitive and stronger natural instincts?" Hawes asked. "We know that as individuals we cannot stay their departure; we cannot hold these things for our children. Only the State and the nation are strong enough to keep these retreats and asylums for both the wild things and for men and women."

Outdoors Pays Dividends. "If we lose our 'big outdoors' we must lose part of our national pride, pluck and patriotism. When we keep our 'big outdoors' we make a real, substantial dividend-paying investment in national prosperity, in national health, in national conscience and public welfare."

In praising the work of the Isaac Walton League, Senator Hawes said it represented the best spirit of the 7,000,000 Americans who have taken out hunting licenses, and the 15,000,000 who have taken out fishing licenses.

Mrs. Lon O. Hooker and Henry C. O'Malley, of the Federal Department of Fisheries at Washington, D. C., were other speakers at the dinner, and Martin Collins was toastmaster.

Pollution of streams, repeal of the Missouri "local option" game law, the establishment of the commission form of direction for the State Game and Fish Bureau and active work by the league in urging State-directed reforestation were among the subjects dealt with by Jack R. Cunningham, Kansas City real estate broker, and president of the league, in his address, opening the convention yesterday morning.

Cunningham urged that some of the fish hatcheries be curtailed in the State, in order to extend the work of fish rescue at the time of the spring floods. Millions of fish are salvaged annually in the Illinois bottoms, Cunningham said, and shipped alive by the carload to the upper Mississippi preserves. In Missouri, he declared, millions of fish died this year when stranded in back-streams with the recession of flood waters. He also urged the opening of hunting preserves in northern Missouri.

Pollution Is 82 Per Cent. In connection with stream pollution, Cunningham said that a survey of American waters was now being made. The latest figures, he said, showed that 82 per cent of the streams and rivers in America are polluted beyond the safety mark.

Robert W. Scholes, speaker of the Illinois House of Representatives, urged "cleaning up" of the rivers, and particularly of the Illinois River, and strongly disapproved of the levee system of flood control, declaring it was useless. Other speakers were J. S. Brown, sanitary engineer, of Kansas City.

WEAK, HARDLY ABLE TO WALK

Lady Had to Lie Down and Rest Several Times a Day—Soon Began to Improve After Taking Cardui.

"I have taken Cardui since childhood," says Mrs. E. S. James, of Vanville, S. C. "My mother was a firm believer in this medicine. She used it for years in her family, and advised me to take it."

"After my last baby came, I was awfully run-down and weak. I suffered with backache a great deal. I could hardly put one foot before the other. Several times each day I had to lie down and rest."

"I had no appetite at all. Nothing tempted me to eat. I ate my meals from a sense of duty, not because I was hungry."

"Because I had taken Cardui several times before and found it had improved after using it, I began taking it then. Soon my appetite began to improve. I gained in weight, and my rest at night was better."

"I continued to take Cardui until I felt well and strong. I have been in good health now for several months, so I recommend Cardui to other sufferers."

What word could be more sincere than the advice of an experienced mother to her daughter? Cardui is a mild, safe remedy.

APPRAISERS GIVEN $1200 EACH
Fees for partitioning the estate of Theodore H. Tempel, who died in 1914, were allowed yesterday in Circuit Court. The three commissioners—George T. Kollas, Ben Philipson and Edwin R. Meisner—were allowed $1200 each. They were appointed by Judge Hartmann on April 13 and their duties were to appraise 16 parcels of realty and apportion shares to the various heirs, nieces and nephews of Tempel. The value of the realty was fixed at $115,000.

An award of $4500 was made to Sievers & Hartmann, who represented the plaintiff in the partition suit, and a fee of $250 goes to Matt J. Scherer for representing a minor heir. All allowances, approved by Judge Hall, were assessed against the estate.

MEDITATIONS
—OF A—MARRIED WOMAN
By HELEN ROWLAND

THAT'S MEN ALL OVER, MABEL!
It takes the average man about six minutes to fall in love; but it takes him six months longer to discover it—and six months more to admit it.

"It has been six months since I stopped writing her," writes a cautious lover, "but now I know that I LOVE her—and nothing else matters!"

Now, isn't that just like a man?

HE loves her—so "nothing else matters!" He has only to tell her the glad, sweet news, and it's all settled, except picking out the wedding decorations.

"Nothing else matters!" It does not matter that she may have worn out the hall rug, running to the door, looking for that letter that never came!

It does not matter that the rose and gold may have gradually faded out of her rainbow dream, and the halo fallen off his image.

It does not matter that he may have hurt her pride, stung her vanity, and left her all crumpled up with an inferiority-complex.

It does not matter that she may have lain awake nights, wondering whether she preferred cyanide or prussic acid, and how she would look in a shroud.

It does not matter that she may have quivered as she visualized him kissing another girl's hair or sampling a series of lipsticks.

It does not matter that she may have gone all the way to Purgatory and back again! Or that she may have forgotten him in a week—and found SOMEBODY ELSE!

He has fought the good fight—and lost! He can't be happy without her!

Now he's all ready to untie himself from a lot of other girls, and tie himself up to ONE. He has counted the leaves on the daisy, and it has come out, "I love her!" Oh, you lucky little woman!

Why is a man's love supposed to be a delicate thing like an orchid, that has to be carefully nursed and cultivated; while a woman's love is supposed to be an air-plant, which can live forever on nothing?

Why does a man always rock the Boat of Happiness by trying to leap out of it in midstream?

Why do nine men out of ten cheerfully fling away the Biggest Thing in Life—and then howl to Heaven because they never can find it again? Life is too swift, these days, for most girls to bother with broken hearts. They just stop long enough to pick up the pieces and go around looking for some clever heart-mender.

Waiting for a doubtful lover is not the modern girl's favorite pastime. She's no glutton for punishment.

Children's Bedtime Story
By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Peter Is Distressed
Be yourself and so be true;
Let all the world know you are you.
—Peter Rabbit.

MANY were the strange people from distant lands seen by Peter Rabbit and Danny Meadow Mouse, as Danny's cousin, Circus Mouse, showed them about in the animal tent at the circus which had come to the Green Meadows. You know what it means to be pop-eyed. It means to have your eyes open so wide that they look as if they were going to jump right out of your head. Well, Peter and Danny were pop-eyed most of the time. Had any one told them that any such animals lived in all the Great World, Peter and Danny would have refused to believe it. Now they had seen and so they had to believe.

At last they came to a cage where Peter at once thought he saw a form which was strangely familiar. At first he couldn't see very well. When at last he reached a place where he could see, Peter received such a surprise that it was almost a shock. For a few minutes he was distressed. Yes, as he really was distressed. "It's Old Man Coyote," he whispered to Danny Meadow Mouse. "However do you suppose Old Man Coyote was caught and brought here without our knowing it?"

"I'll ask Circus Mouse," said Danny.

So Danny asked Circus Mouse how long Old Man Coyote had been with the Circus, and Circus Mouse stared at Danny as if he thought Danny was trying to play a joke of some sort. "That isn't Old Man Coyote," said he.

"It's a Coyote," declared Danny. "No one said it wasn't," snapped Circus Mouse. "Of course it's a Coyote, but it isn't Old Man Coyote. It is Miss Coyote, and she has been with the Circus longer than I have."

"What?" cried Peter and Danny together.

"I said that that Miss Coyote and she has been with the circus longer than I have," replied Circus Mouse. "What of it?"

"Nothing, nothing," replied Peter hastily. "You see, Old Man Coyote, who lives on the Green Meadows, is the only Coyote I have ever seen until now. I can see a difference now that you mention it. I wonder if Old Man Coyote knows that Miss Coyote is here."

"Now you mention it, I suspect he does," replied Circus Mouse. "Miss Coyote was howling last night and I thought I heard somebody outside howling in reply that must have been Old Man Coyote."

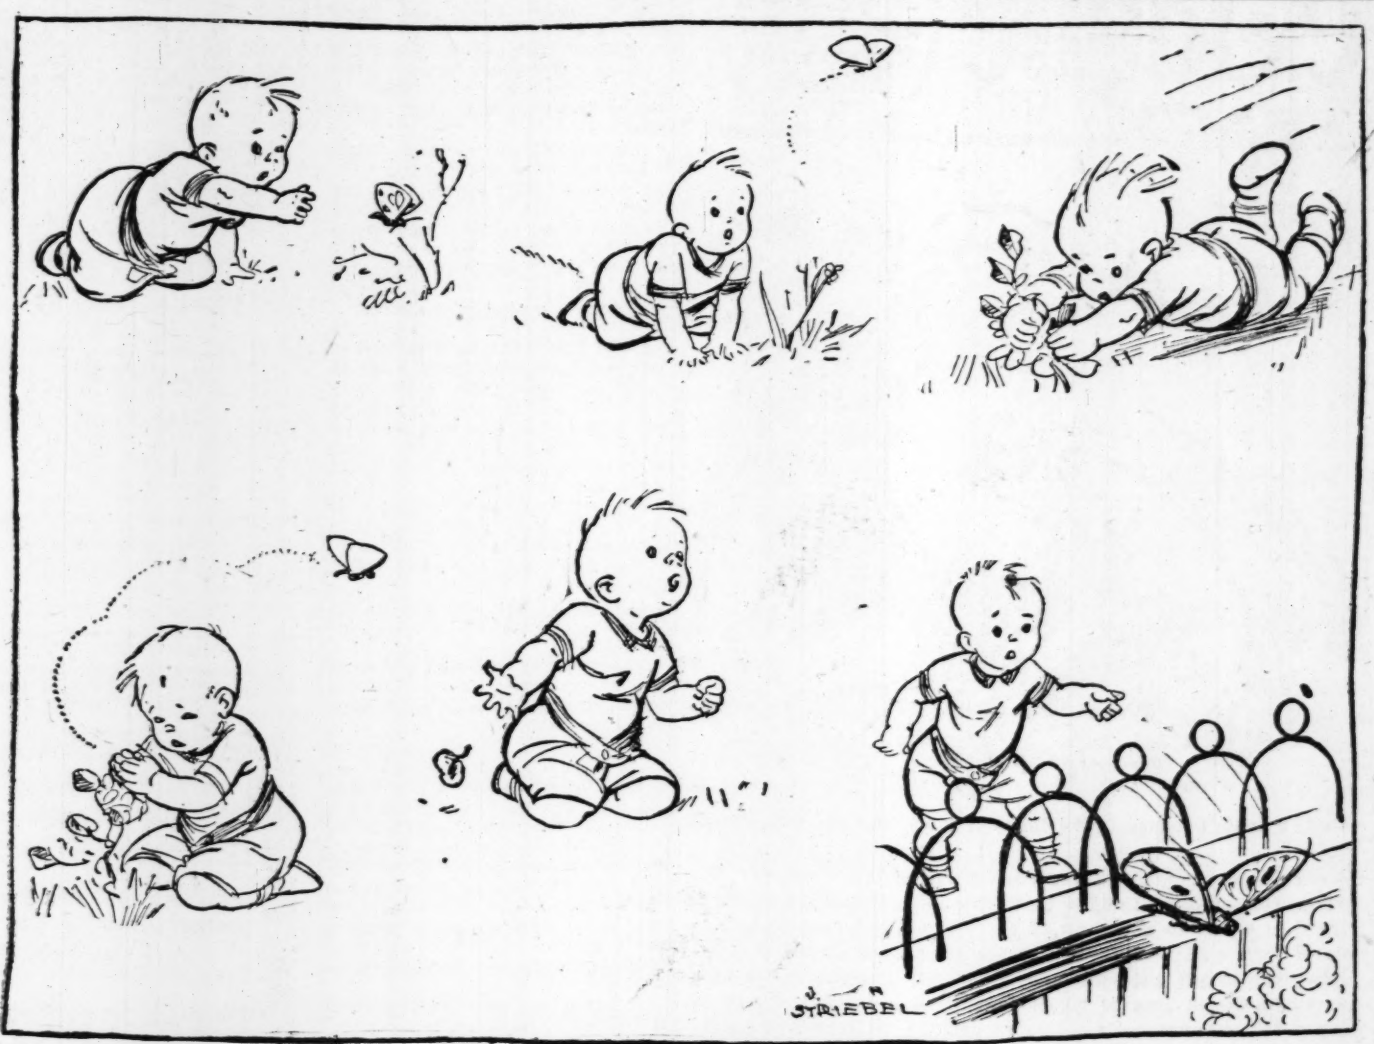

"Yes," replied Peter. "Old Man Coyote was howling. I noticed it. I didn't notice that any one else was howling, for you know Old Man Coyote's voice sounds like a lot of voices, anyway; so I thought he was making all the noise. The very first time I heard him I thought there was a whole pack of strange creatures on the Green Meadows. It was a long time before I could believe that one voice could sound like so many voices."

"I know," replied Circus Mouse. "It is the same way with Miss Coyote. It would fool almost any one. I've noticed that Miss Coyote has been unusually uneasy in the last day or two. It must be that she knows that Old Man Coyote is somewhere near. I wonder what would happen if he should come in here the way you have."

"I can tell you one thing that would happen," replied Peter, looking about uneasily. "Danny and I would be outside this place as quickly as our legs would take us. Hark! There's Old Man Coyote now." And just at that minute Miss Coyote pointed her nose skyward and began to yelp in that curious way that makes a Coyote's voice sound like many voices.

ALL IN A BABY'S LIFE— The Chase By John H. Striebel

Milton Work's Bridge Pointers

THE pointer for today is: With no trump contract and an eight led, dummy holding ten-x-x and the closed hand King-Queen-x, declarer may be sure that dummy's ten can win the first trick.

When the opening lead against a No Trump is a small card, it is the leader's fourth best; consequently he must have three higher cards in that suit. In this case there are only three cards higher than the card led which are not in the Declarer's two hands, so the Declarer can be positive that the Ten will win the trick. This is merely another method of stating the Rule of Eleven, which is that a subtraction of the pips on the card led from eleven, shows the number of cards of the suit higher than the card led which are not in the hand of the leader.

Yesterday the cards of the Dummy (North) and Closed Hand (South) were given in the following deal:

♠ K-4-3-2	♥ K-10-8
♦ K-J-2	♣ K-10-7
♠ 10-7-5	♥ 9-8-7-6
♦ A-J-9-5-2	♣ A-6-4
♠ A-6-7-5	♥ A-5-4

OUR CHILDREN'S NOSES
By Angelo Patri

Angelo Patri is just the principal of a New York grade school, but the late Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard, said Patri is doing more for common-school education than any other person in America. This school, a model in every respect, is a mecca for teachers from all parts of the country.

When children are little their noses are taken care of for them but as they grow older their mothers, busy with the baby, calls, "Use your handkerchief," and lets it go at that.

That isn't enough. Noses are exceedingly important. In the first place it is necessary that a child breathe through his nose, not his mouth. There are strainers in his nose to catch the dust, clean the air before it gets down to his lungs. That helps keep away illness, helps him to grow.

Then in cold weather the cold air is heated as it passes through the nose and goes down to the lungs comfortably warmed. A mouthful of icy air gulped down hurts. The child is likely to get a sharp cold in his chest. If he breathed through his nose he would get fewer of such unpleasantnesses.

A child cannot speak clearly if his nose is clogged. The passages must be kept clear. Talking needs free breath, easy breathing, clear nose space, so the tones will carry, so the speech will be distinct. I'm heartily sorry for the child who rises to read and begins, "Sniff, sniff, sniff, all de blik was shilled and alid de-sniff, sniff, cade were lading id ub, sniff, sniff, whend Hans came out."

"I can't understand a word you say," protests the teacher. "Can't you speak so we can understand you?"

"I got a cold in my head," he says with open mouth and closed nostrils.

A whole lot of that cold in the head would be done away with if before the child went to breakfast, after he had washed his face and before he brushed his teeth, he attended to cleaning out his nasal passages. That duty should be added to the others of the morning toilet. A stopped nose is impossible to carry around in comfort, or decency.

Nor is that the worst of it. A stopped nose brings on ear trouble. Nobody would wish his worst enemy an ear ache but children are allowed to court one daily because their noses have not been given proper care. Hearing means so much to the children. They learn so much through their ears that we cannot afford to let them lose any part of its quick quality, its accuracy.

Cleanliness of the handkerchief is imperative. A child will use his handkerchief to wipe off his shoes so the teacher will give him an extra for neatness and then use the useful article for his nose or his eyes or his mouth as necessity demands.

Wants Old Men for War.
ROME.—Age should be conscripted before youth in future wars, contends Signora Benedetta, feminist leader of Italy, who urged Premier Mussolini to accept her recruiting plan. She thinks men in the sixties and fifties should be mobilized first, then those of 40 and 30 and finally the young men who should be reserved for the final shock of the war when strong bodies would be useful after the equally matched mechanical forces had reached a deadlock and exhaustion. Signora Benedetta's plan refers only to conscription, admitting volunteer service at all ages.

This Trio Discriminates

"We use Bond Bread because it is firm and well baked," says the mother of Genevieve, Virginia and Adolph Peschke, who appear above.

Mrs. Peschke likewise says: "Bond Bread satisfies better than any ordinary bread. When the children can't get Bond, they eat only half as much bread."

They live at 3446 South Jefferson Avenue.

Just 8 years ago, 2315 St. Louis housewives brought samples of their home-baked bread to the Y. W. C. A. to show us the kind of bread they wanted for themselves and their children. Being frankly copied from the best of these 2315 loaves, Bond Bread quickly became St. Louis's most popular bread.

Why is it that after 8 years of unparalleled popularity, Bond Bread now enjoys an even greater demand than ever before in its history?

Because day after day for 8 long years, Bond Bread has been uniformly home-like. Its splendid flavor comes from its pure ingredients—ingredients every bit as pure and choice as you yourself would use. Its healthfulness comes largely from its thorough baking. This thorough baking is what makes it so firm and close-textured, as well as so flavorful.

Every day more and more housewives realize it pays to discriminate in bread. They have tried them all and have convinced themselves that a home-like, healthful bread, like Bond, is the greatest bargain a woman can buy.

Dress According to Mood
By Josephine Huddleston

DRESS according to your mood if you would always be at ease is the most splendid rule for feminine poise I know of.

Let us suppose that on this particular morning you awakened with the joy of the soft spring morning pouring in your veins. And that you must arise and dress for the day in the business world. Now spring is soft and laughing and gay and business is a severe matter of typing, adding up long columns of figures or selling bonnets to women who are not confined to working hours.

It is an emotional crime to stifle that exuberant spring feeling with which you awakened, and yet it cannot be allowed to spoil the day's work. Well, then, let us see how we can blend these two so widely different impulses so that our efficiency is not impaired and so that we can get the spiritual benefit of our springtime mood.

We might begin with putting fresh, crisp collars and cuffs on our plain, dark dress. Then, with perfect nicety, we might add a piquant little bow to suggest the festive feeling within us. Or a small bunch of brightly colored flowers may be placed on the shoulder or tucked into the folds of the frock somewhere without being too disturbing to the workaday world.

It is surprising how many little, unobtrusive things may be done to keep that spring joy from dying. Then again, let us suppose that while you are really a rather meek young lady, some inexplicable impulse of the vamps subtly creeps in to your being as you start to dress for an evening's amusement. A longing for carmine lips and straight slim lines possesses you. It may be strong enough to include earrings. Very well. A touch of the lip stick, a different selection of frock and the earrings will satisfy that vampish feeling in no time.

Every woman is a dozen different women and feels the influence of each type at various times. Why then remain one woman, appearing always the same, when the charm and variety of a dozen women lies within yourself?

Naturally we don't want to change our character, but there are more than twelve types of highly commendable women, and when they make their presence felt within yourself obey the call by changing the mode of your hair, or your frock, or your slippers or your make-up. By doing so you will achieve an ease of manner that will be the envy of those who have found their type and are going to stick to it regardless of their emotional capacity.

Back to the Social Settlement.
CHICAGO.—Although she has retired as city commissioner of public welfare, Mrs. Mary E. McDowell, at the age of 74, is returning to work in the social settlement she founded more than three decades ago in the Chicago stockyards district. The aged social worker helped Jane Addams found Hull House, and later, with the aid of the University of Chicago launched the settlement "back of the yards" which she has directed ever since.

SYNOPSIS

Cornelia Marsh, employed in the scenario department of Hertzog's motion picture studio at Fort Lee, learns with sorrow that Henry Horner, the head of the department, has been fired by Lyman Hertzog, son of the owner of the studio. Every one knows that Lyman is jealous of Henry because he is in love with Dulcie Jayne, the star of the studio, but Dulcie seems to prefer her director, Daniel K. Leland.

INSTALLMENT X. EASY PREY.

WHILE scenes were being shot members of the scenario department were forbidden on the lot just as rigorously as they were excluded from the studio. But during lunch hour today the lot stood idle and Cornelia was free to pick her way toward a Chinese temple, the entrance court of Versailles, and the top of a lighthouse that was built close to the ground in the midst of Jersey for close-ups.

Emerging upon a field screened from distant cottages by a thin grove of flame-tinted maple she spread a newspaper on the grass—for at forty-five and in September even the most romantic person has to be a little careful—and seated herself upon the brink of a slope from which the locally celebrated view was said to include three states and a river. You really got back a good deal of being an authoress—and of being a girl!—when, steeped in the woods-scented September noon, you sat in a flame-colored grove and looked down on three states and a river while lunching.

Particularly on cake days. Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays she first walked down the road to the little grocery where you could get a slice of walnut cake with icing for ten cents. But toward the end of the week, wage earners will understand, you economized. And this was Saturday.

"Well, I couldn't eat any cake today if I had it," she told herself, conciliating not so much her own appetite as her mother's rebelliousness when Cornelia's luncheon had to be slim. "I'm too excited thinking about a new picture that perhaps I can try doing for Dulcie Jayne."

So far had the fact that she was losing Mr. Horner already been pushed aside by yesterday's apparition of the Golden Idol in her blue cloud. Idol-worship being scarcely staggered by that whole-souled brutality which the idol herself had exhibited.

For that first sight of Dulcie Jayne in the flesh, that moment when she clung to the great Daniel K. and cried out, "What does any of it matter so long as I have you?" had gone to Cornelia's head like an enduring champagne. It was so many years since she had been in contact with great personalities, so long since she had been close to young love and young glory. Here, in this lonely, dreaming noontide, in this bowery formed for confidences, she was close enough for all her wisdom, all her tenderness to be saying: "O, my dear, he'd never make you happy—never!" And yet to trill to the drama in a celestially husky voice: "What does any of that matter so long as I have you?" O, the drama there was in that girl, that somehow wasn't coming out nowadays on the screen! If only she could write Dulcie a great picture! For as her mother dreamed of the past so did this Victorian authoress, this daughter of a Shakespearean star, dream of the movies. It had come on her like this.

When the world first began to get away from Cornelia, dancing forever down the ringing grooves of Change, as the Victorian Poet Laureate might have warned her long ago, there had been many years when she had just ran along after the dancers—breathless, a little shocked at their crudity, not realizing that the step had changed and that she would never catch up. Her heart was fearfully bruised and bewildered before she did at last realize that she had run out of the world which sang "In the Gloaming" and would never fit into the one which had become absolutely Mr. Gallagher's and positively Mr. Shean's. In the days of emotional acting and romantic standards she had had playmates, she had had companions, but now she found herself alone in a brightly futuristic desert, where all the sand was brand new. She had been lonely and frightened enough to lie down and die there when suddenly, from a far horizon, had thrilled the thud of horses' hoofs; the desert turned off as time again and the rescue party swept up to her across a screen. She went to see her first movie and the most modern thing in the new world proved to be the home of the oldest dreams. All, all were here, the old familiar faces.

Not of persons, of course, but of the kinds of feeling Cornelia knew about. The flaming swords of youth and beauty, the high colored temperaments and the bomb-bursting passions, so long barred disdainfully out of the neat little airtight box the managers were then trying to make out of the theater, had founded a kingdom of their own with the air of the great open spaces whooping freely about as yet untainted by the publicity department. A kingdom where ladies brought up on Jane Eyre and The Idyls of the King gladly encountered smothered seraphs in flannel shirts riding at dawn along the skyline or blessed damozels, with the physique of kittens and the hair of the Seven Sisters, leaning out from the bough of a lone pine, gun in hand, defending the helpless. And O, my heart, how young they were! Golden lads and girls, all leading mobs, jumping across canons, rescuing stray dogs, killing everybody that got in their way, riding and loving and fighting, skydiving and grabbing and riding, riding and kissing and shooting, like the old, bold mates of Henry Morgan! Youth had returned to Cornelia, without the inhibitions of her own youth.

"Well, I couldn't eat any cake today if I had it," she told herself.

And now, again, she had her heart full. For like hundreds of thousands of lonely people with romantic streaks all round the wide, wide world, she embraced these dazed seraphs and kittens as her very own—young creatures whose fortunes she accompanied every week through moments of extraordinary intimacy and in whose triumphs, on and off the screen, she seemed to feel some confirmation of her old faith that life is kind. Thus to Cornelia, motion pictures began by meaning life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Then, suddenly, the time was upon her, when they meant Dulcie Jayne.

Doubtless other—and far more romantic—figures still existed on the screen. Cornelia, the ungrateful, was false to them all. Like the rest of the world she had fallen an easy prey to the small, pale girl who, at 15, had sprung out of nowhere with a shawl over her head, seized the heart of the public in a remorseless little hand and squeezed it. The shawl became a sacred symbol, vulgarizing mere pearls, palanquins and principalities, putting vamps and flappers out of business. At the end of two years the girl with the shawl came east, over the heads and hearts of a prostrate nation. And it would not have been accurate to say that now she prostrated herself alone. But now, as one of the faithful, she sighed. And, as she sighed, across her shoulder there fell a shadow. But it wasn't entirely the shadow of foreboding. A voice droned shyly: "I thought maybe if I was to chip in some cake, I could get some tea. Excuse me," Henry Horner sedately dimpled. "You don't mind my coming?"

Cornelia looked up from her empty lunch box to the saucer of sliced walnut cake with icing in Mr. Horner's hand. "The child is a wizard!" she found herself thinking, before she had time to wonder what he had come for, with cake or without it.

From a fuzzy bulge of pocket the provident youth produced a cup, opening his brown eyes round, for permission to expect that she would fill it.

The Good Old Days

By Lucy Lowell

HE is one of those who always is talking about the "good old days."

(Indeed there are many like him—more than you'd believe; folks up in years who just won't be happy because today isn't yesterday.)

He remembers various "things" which make him sad when he compares them with things as they are. He remembers when a workingman could go to the corner meat-shop and buy a pound of steak for a dime. He remembers when the same thin coin would take a dozen fresh eggs or a peck of apples.

He can recall the time when music had some time to it instead of just a lot of crash-bang noise to make your head ache.

He remembers when the younger generation—the girl part of it—wasn't going to the dogs, what with knee showing and hair cut short and their loud talk of things their mothers and grandmothers would have fainted to hear mentioned back in the old days.

And it's a sad day we're living in—

Well, is it? Was the time he remembers actually so much better than this?

The working man may pay from five to ten times as much for a pound of steak or a dozen of eggs as he did then. But—

The working man's salary is more than ten times as high!

Back in the old days the working man celebrated his holidays—when he celebrated at all—by walking to the park with his family, totting along a lurching wife had cooked, walking home again.

Now he rolls out his shiny new car, motors out to some nearby town, lunches in style at a clever roadside inn, motors home again in time for the theater.

It costs him more to live than it did, but he has more to live with. And he does a lot more living. As for jazz music, it may be all this reminiscence claims. It is noisy and clamorous and senseless. But—

How about some of the old-time popular songs? How about "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay"? Not so much music or sense to that, was there? Yet I am told it was a great piece in its time.

And the flappers—no, they don't faint. Their skirts and their hair may be short and their clothing negligible but they seem to thrive on it. Physically they're a healthy lot.

It sort of seems to me that the very frank loudness of their talk indicates a certain amount of mental health. It's the suppressed thing—that which is gagged and blushed and whispered over—which stands for spiritual unsanctified.

PINEDO'S PLANE

Aviator Bound for Port of Horta, After Hailing Shore at Another Point, Says Dispatch.

CAME DOWN, OFF HIS COURSE, IN FOG

Four-Continent Pilot Had Hopped Off on Trans-Atlantic Flight From Newfoundland.

By the Associated Press.
PORTA, ISLAND OF FAYAL, Azores, May 23.—A rough sea today created unfavorable conditions for the voyage of Commander de Pinedo's seaplane which is reported in tow of a sailing schooner bound for this port.
LISBON, May 23.—Commander Francisco de Pinedo, Italian four-continent flyer, has continued on the schooner Infanta Venesgrea, with his seaplane in tow. Horta, according to a dispatch received today from Horta. It was said the schooner towing the plane reached another point of the island of Fayal, but proceeded to Horta, where De Pinedo had shouted to those on shore that he replied no assistance.
The Portuguese gunboat, Beira, proceeding to Horta with gasoline and will offer aid to De Pinedo.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 23.—Lloyd's gave out an intercepted wireless message today from the Italian seaman, Duilio, saying: "I'm Pinedo's seaplane been towed safely into Fayal."
Details still were lacking of the circumstances which brought De Pinedo down near the end of his 40-hour jump from Tropasey, N. F., to the Azores, but dispatches said De Pinedo was not injured in the landing, and that his plane, the Santa Maria II, was being towed to port.
The dense fog which compelled De Pinedo and his two companions to descend after they had gone considerably off their course, continued to shroud the island archipelago today, and atmospheric conditions made radio communication difficult.

Passing Steamer Reports Plane in Tow of Sailing Vessel.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 23.—The Santa Maria II, Commander de Pinedo's plane, was seen in tow of the schooner Infanta Venesgrea, near latitude 41-25 north and longitude 22-25 west, or 340 miles southwest of the Azores, by the steamer Cabo Torres, said wireless messages received by the Radio Corporation of America. The vessel was sighted at 12:50 G. M. T. 8:30 Eastern daylight time, yesterday.
